FIRE HITS CITY BOWLING ALLEYS

Sharp Criticism Levelled At Dieppe Raid Planning

(From BUP and CP Dispatches) LONDON.—Severe criticism of the planning of the ill-fated Dieppe Raid of Aug. 18, 1942, in which hundreds of Canadians were killed, was contained today in an official history of Second World War.

The book, the second volume of "The War at Sea (1939-1945)," by Capt. S. W. Roskill, DSC, RN, said the plan to attack Dieppe had three serious defects:

1. "The excessive reliance placed on surprise, in conditions where complete surprise was unlikely to be achieved."
2. "The weight and strength of supporting fire—both close and distant—was nothing like adequate to deal with defence of such power and density."
3. "The plan was extremely complicated, and military planning was overly-rigid."

Roskill noted that this latter fault was usually attributed to the Germans. He said the Ger-

Solon Low, Bennett Talk Election Plans

National Social Credit Leader Solon Low paid a lightning visit to Victoria over the weekend to confer with provincial leaders on party strategy for the federal election.

Mr. Low arrived in the city Sunday afternoon, met with Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner during the evening, and left by air early this morning for Edmonton.

Original plans called for Mr. Low to spend at least two days here and in Vancouver, meeting with top officials of the Social Credit League.

Premier Bennett today referred to the talks as a "survey" of Social Credit strength across Canada for the election—forecast for June.

"The federal campaign is really rolling now," Mr. Bennett said, and predicted that Social Credit will sweep B.C.'s 22 federal seats and will take "a minimum" of 40 across the country.

The premier indicated he will take an active role in Social Credit campaigning during the federal election.

Although no dates have been set, it appears likely he will make a number of speeches in other parts of the country.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, named by Mr. Low last November to "mastermind" the national Social Credit assault on Ottawa, said the campaign committee is slated to meet again in Toronto in mid-April.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our heavenly Father, this day forgive us our debts even as we forgive our debtors. Forgive our small and deadly tongues, their words of anger and unkindness. Forgive our unbelieving hearts and lack of trust in the promise of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Senators Gun for Dulles On Mid-East Policies

Robbery Admitted By Youths

Two 17-year-old Victoria boys, Robert Edward March and Robert Edward Smart, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today to armed robbery of a Gladstone street confectionery, Jan. 23.

They were transferred to police court from juvenile court. Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded them for sentence to Feb. 4.

Juvenile officer Lyle Sommers told the court the boys held up Esther Levi, 1308 Gladstone, and robbed her of $8, using a .32 calibre automatic pistol. They wore red handkerchiefs over their faces, but the proprietress ripped the cloth from one to be able to identify him later.

The boys were picked up by police and the weapon was found in their room at a local hotel. It was fully loaded, Const. Sommers said.

Robbery occurred about 9:15 p.m. while there were no others in the shop except Mrs. Levi.

GANGLAND VENGEANCE LINKED TO B.C. CAR BLAST

VANCOUVER (CP)—A car belonging to businessman Peter Hamilton was wrecked by an explosion outside his Wellington Street home here Sunday night.

Hamilton said today he believes the person who blew it up is one whom he "turned in" for a crime 12 years ago.

He told police the man threatened he would "get" him, his mother and a detective who worked on the case.

The blast ripped off the lid of the trunk and flung it about 30 feet, tore a hole through the floor and scattered heavy tools stored inside the trunk.

A window in the Hamilton home was shattered and people throughout the neighborhood were startled by the sharp report. No one was injured.

More Warm Air 'Around Corner'

Warmer weather arrived in Victoria today on schedule, and more is "just around the corner," according to weatherman William Mackie.

The official thermometer at Gonzales Observatory rose above freezing point today for the first time since last Tuesday, and Mr. Mackie expected it to reach 38 degrees during the warmest part of the day.

He predicted a minimum temperature of 27 degrees tonight, considerably warmer than the 17 degrees of last week, and a maximum Tuesday of 38 degrees. There will be increasing cloudiness tonight, and cloudy skies Tuesday, with northerly winds up to 15 miles per hour.

Victorians made the most of the novelty of crisp, cold weather by flocking to outdoor skating surfaces by the hundreds Sunday afternoon.

LAKE SKATERS

One of the largest crowds was at Elk Lake, where observers said there were at least 400 skaters on the ice.

The Langford Lake crowd was described as "dozens." Lake residents had put wooden

Liquor Tax Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian makers of whisky, rum and gin appealed to Finance Minister Harris today for $20,000,000 worth of tax reductions, maintaining that the distilling industry is the most heavily taxed in the country.

Bank Bandit Attempted Restitution

Leonard Wilson, 29, Duncan and Vancouver construction worker and wrestler, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary when he appeared in city court today on a charge of armed robbery of a Victoria bank Jan. 3.

He pleaded guilty to the charge previously and was remanded for sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Appearing for him was lawyer James Proudfoot, who said: "All I can say, Your Honor, is that it was a crime committed on impulse and one in which a gun was not used."

Wilson was picked up by Seattle police after a tip from a TCA booking agent at Patricia Bay indicated the suspect had boarded a plane for the Washington city a few hours after the hold-up.

Wilson had nothing to say to the court.

He was attempting to repay all of the money obtained from the Douglas and Cormorant branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. Some $800 of the total $1,500 was recovered in his possession.

Cabinet OK Speeds Start on Somass Power

Construction of the $10,000,000 first stage of a projected three-part development by the B.C. Power Commission on the Somass River system of Central Vancouver Island is expected to get underway this spring, following cabinet approval today.

The cabinet authorized the commission to proceed with construction of a dam on the Ash River and 35,000-horsepower plant at Great Central Lake.

The new power is scheduled to be flowing into the Vancouver Island system by the fall of 1958.

Plans have been drawn up by the commission for dams on the Ash, Sproat and Stamp Rivers, but development of the last two streams is being held up by a fish problem. Discussions now are under

Democrats Demand Resignation For 'Mishandling'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democrats were demanding today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign for what they termed his mishandling of the Middle East problem.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (Pennsylvania Democrat) made an outright request that Dulles give up his post on grounds that he has "lost the confidence of our Allies" and Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minnesota Democrat) and Sen. J. William Fulbright (Arkansas Democrat), both members of the powerful Senate foreign relations committee, hinted indirectly that they also want Dulles to quit.

Senator Humphrey said in an interview that Congress is showing a "growing lack of confidence" in Dulles, and he added:

SAME AS EDEN

"There is a feeling that Mr. Dulles may well be a casualty of the cold war, just as Mr. Eden was."

He referred to Sir Anthony Eden, who resigned as British prime minister in the wake of the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt.

At the same time, Senator Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, said the "organized attack" on Dulles is coming from some Democrats with presidential ambitions.

"There seem to be several of these horsemen riding their presidential ambitions hard," he said in an interview.

DIRECT FIRE AT DULLES

Wiley, top Republican on the Senate foreign relations committee, said he has no doubt the Democrats "have had their meetings and they have divided up the field of attack" on Dulles.

"They have come to the conclusion they could not attack President Eisenhower after his landslide victory in November and so they are directing their fire on Mr. Dulles," Wiley said, adding:

"You would think from listening to some of them that Dulles started all of the trouble in the Middle East. I don't think they are getting to first base with their attacks."

Dulles went back before the combined Senate foreign relations and armed services committees today for more questioning—this time in secret—on the "Eisenhower doctrine" for protecting the Middle East from Communism.

He was subjected to a blistering Democratic attack on his handling of the Middle East situation during four days of public testimony last week.

The administration turned on the pressure to prevent a foreign policy inquiry proposed by Sen. Fulbright. Senators were being told that such a review might cause a new breach in U.S. relations with Britain and France when it touched on those nations' Suez attack and U.S. opposition to it.

U.K. Gov't Refuses To Oust U.S. Forces

LONDON (Reuters)—Home Secretary R. A. Butler today turned down a proposal by a Labor member in the House of Commons that he should immediately remove the United States armed forces from British soil.

Labor member Stephen Davies made this suggestion "in view of the policy announced by President Eisenhower in regard to the United States military intervention in the Middle East and the possibility of a Third World War arising therefrom."

Butler was answering on behalf of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, to whom the question was addressed.

PROTECTIVE

Butler replied: "No sir. The policy announced by the president envisages the use of American forces in the Middle East solely to protect Middle Eastern countries against overt armed aggression from any nation controlled by international Communism and then only at the desire of the nations attacked."

"So the purpose of this policy, far from provoking war, is to prevent it, and the United States forces in the United Kingdom are part of the deterrent against war."

FIRST TIME

Prince Goes 'Outside' For Classes

LONDON (CP)—Prince Charles, sturdy eight-year-old heir to the British Throne, went to school today for the first time.

This morning at an exclusive London preparatory school was the first time he has attended classes outside the private school room in Buckingham Palace.

May of his new classmates were already known to the prince. He met them in November when he played soccer with them on the school playing field.

For the present, Prince Charles will attend morning classes at the school five days a week.

HELD IN GIRL KILLINGS

Illiterate skid row dishwasher, Bennie Bedwell, 21 (left), today confessed killing the teenaged Grimes sisters of Chicago because they refused his advances, police said. But the man he named as an accomplice, William C. Willingham Jr., 26, of Richmond, Va. (right), denied any part in the crime. Bedwell said he killed the girls after making the rounds of skid row bars with them. Willingham denied knowing the Grimes girls, but said he had been with Bedwell on dates with two Indian girls. Scrapers on power mowers to clear two ice hockey rinks, and two boys with bicycles made themselves popular by towing girls on skates.

One motorcyclist towed a skier over the ice, according to J. C. Nimmo, Leigh Road, and two hockey games were in session at all times.

Mrs. L. L. Lolsell of Swan Lake Road, reported Swan Lake was "like an ant hill Sunday afternoon." She said there were four motorcycles on the lake towing skaters, and five hockey games.

"There must have been at least 300 on the ice," she said.

ALL CROWDED

The crowd at Panama Flats was into the hundreds, and at least 200 skated on Goodacre Lake in Beacon Hill Park. Prospect Lake was reported "crowded," and even Portage Inlet had a few dozen skaters.

Skiers crowded slopes in the vicinity of Rithet Hill reservoir, and a slope on Victoria Golf Club course on Oak Bay attracted children and adults on skis, sleds and toboggans.

Elsewhere the cold was a hardship rather than a source of sport and pastime. Sooke Harbor was without water Friday night while a Greater Victoria Water District crew cleared the intake and thawed the main leading to the village. Saxeons did without water from Friday to Sunday, and the district was ready to serve the 130 customers with tank trucks when the service finally was restored Sunday morning.

PLANT CLOSED

In Port Alberni, where temperatures have hovered from three degrees above zero to three below, Macmillan & Bloedel Ltd. announced the plywood plant employing 800 persons would remain closed until the weather moderates.

Jack Moore, financial secretary of IWA Local 185, explained to members that in extremely cold weather sapwood freezes, making it impossible to get good plywood in the peeling stage.

Island roads were described today as "fair, and sanded where necessary," with the exception of the Malahat, where some construction is going on between Mile 11 and Mile 23.

spurned similar suggestions in the past.

Foreign Minister Mohamed Mahgoub of Sudan, chosen by the Arab-Asian group to present its views at the start of the assembly's latest round of the Middle East debate, charged that Israel threatened to touch off the third world war.

"I appeal to all . . . to condemn Israel and to withhold any assistance—financial, economic or military," Mahgoub said. "If Israel alone stands to defy and disregard the UN, it deserves nothing but condemnation, with the severest penalties . . ."

"Apparently, the thirst of Israel for blood, and the pleasure it takes in human misery, has not yet been satisfied. Israel now dauntlessly strives to threaten the world peace."

Neither Israel nor Egypt chose to speak at the start of the debate on last Friday's report by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, which rejected Israel's right to hold the Gaza and Gulf of Aqaba areas its forces overran in last year's brief Suez war.

The major powers, several of whom were considering resolutions on the situation, also were content to wait until later to put their views before the Assembly. Today's preliminary speakers list included only Sudan, Ceylon, Jordan, the Philippines, Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

Canada, the United States and several other countries were working on a resolution to put into effect the proposals made by Hammarskjöld in his report to the Assembly Friday.

The secretary-general urged Israel's early withdrawal from the last areas Israeli troops still hold three months after their invasion of Egypt—the disputed Gaza Strip on the Mediterranean and the south coast of Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, where Egyptian guns had barred Israeli shipping from the Gulf of Aqaba.

Missile Wrecked

WASHINGTON (AP)—An air force attempt to launch a test version of its Thor ballistic missile was reported Sunday to have ended in failure, with the multi-ton rocket in wreckage. The incident occurred at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., the missile test-centre used by all the armed forces and from which weapons are fired out over the Atlantic in a southwesterly direction.

The usual tight secrecy concerning all missile tests was thrown around the Thor launching attempt.

U.K. Tories Predict Tax Relief in Budget

By FRASER WIGHTON
LONDON (Reuters)—Conservative politicians are predicting that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will surprise Britain with an April financial budget designed to lift some of the gloom caused by the Middle East crisis.

They say defence cuts planned by Britain, and now being discussed by Defence Minister Duncan Sandys in Washington, are only part of a Macmillan economy drive in practically every government department.

This campaign, they add, will be balanced in the budget by incentives to greater production and export.

BIG THREE CONFERENCE

'Brass Tacks' Policy Suggested for Ike

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some state department officials would like to see President Eisenhower return to "brass tacks" negotiations when he meets the leaders of Britain and France here in the spring.

They would prefer that he use less of the personality approach by which he seeks to bring about better understanding without trying necessarily to solve any specific problems. There is some fear that an Allied summit conference could do more harm than good unless it is prepared for with great care and conducted according to a well-considered plan.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French Premier Guy Mollet are expected to come here within the next three or four months. Some officials say it could be as early as March.

Eisenhower has used many times an informal approach to international meetings—from his conference with British and French leaders in Bermuda in December, 1953, to his talks last month with India's Prime Minister Nehru. That seems to be the spirit of his approach also to his week's meeting with King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Officials emphasizing a need for careful advance planning for a Big Three conference cite the possibility that a minor misunderstanding or chance comment could produce popular anger or resentment.

$3,000 Robbery At Chemainus

Theft of about $3,000 in cash and cheques in a 1,200-pound motel safe was reported by RCMP today as a result of a Saturday night break-in at Chemainus.

The safe was stolen from Horse-shoe Bay Inn sometime Saturday night, and all cheques, totalling $1,000, were stamped with the name of the hotel.

Remainder of the money, about $2,000, was in varying denominations of currency.

Official Fired For Blasting Ike

Information Officer Broke Rules By Criticizing Middle East Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today fired an information officer in the Far East who publicly denounced President Eisenhower's Middle East proposal as "a blank cheque for one-man rule."

Charles Edmundson, U.S. information agency officer at Seoul, South Korea, made his criticism in Tokyo Sunday. He was fired today with this announcement by the U.S. information agency.

"The public statement issued in Tokyo by Charles Edmundson is in violation of agency personnel regulations. His resignation is being requested and he is being recalled to Washington."

Agency officials said the regulations he violated are based on the agency's mission to "further and carry out" U.S. policy—and not to attempt to make it.

Edmundson handed newspapermen his "strictly personal statement" during a stopover at Tokyo.

It charged "profiteers, grafters and politicians" around the world are getting hold of U.S. aid funds. He objected to investigations of state department activity and bans on travel by U.S. newspapermen.

"I cannot conscientiously support a foreign policy which I believe may lead us beyond the brink and into atomic war," Edmundson said. He added he was prepared to resign if his bosses objected to his views.

'Dulles Dictionary' Urged by U.K. Paper

LONDON (Reuters) — For the third day running the British press today criticizes John Foster Dulles for what they call his "tactless" and "offensive" remark about British and French troops.

One newspaper, the independent Edinburgh Scotsman, suggests a "Dulles dictionary" may be needed to understand the U.S. Secretary of State.

Dulles, in testimony before the Senate foreign relations committee in Washington last week, said that if he were an American going to fight in the Middle East he would rather not have British and French troops with him.

The state department later explained Dulles was only referring to "inflamed feelings" against Britain and France as a result of the British-French armed intervention in Egypt. But the Scotsman comments that Dulles has not withdrawn or apologized for the remark.

The secretary of state "means."

Budapest Police Nab Spies, Arms

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungarian police Sunday announced 34 new arrests in Budapest. Twenty were accused as members of two alleged "counter-revolutionary" bands captured with large stocks of hidden arms and ammunition.

Each group consisted of 10 persons. One alleged band was apparently made up of teenagers because all are being handed over to juvenile courts. At the same time police announced another roundup had netted 14 persons accused of being criminals freed from the capital's jails during the October revolution.

The government press also announced four more persons had been sentenced at Miskolc, northeast of Budapest, for concealing weapons. One man was sentenced to death, one to 13 years' imprisonment and a third to 10 years.

The arms and equipment captured in the latest Budapest raids reportedly included machine guns, rifles and grenades as well as 11 radio transmitting and receiving sets.

'Spying' by Students Just 'Escapade'?

VIENNA (Reuters) — The British minister in Budapest, L. A. C. Fry met Hungarian officials today to arrange legal defence for four British students arrested on espionage charges. He also is trying to obtain permission to visit the students, believed held in a Budapest prison.

The four, arrested Jan. 17, are Miss Judith Cripps, 18, granddaughter of the late Sir Stafford Cripps; Roger Cooper, 21, nephew of poet Robert Graves; Basil Lord, 25, and his brother Christopher, 21.

The London Times today calls on the Hungarian government to release the students. It is ridiculous to try to fit their "escapade" into Hungary into the category of espionage, the newspaper says.

How Many Refugees?

MR. MICHAEL BARKWAY, able Ottawa editor of The Financial Post, recently flew to Vienna and returned, heartsick.

In the crowded Austrian capital he was surrounded by eager Hungarian refugees who expected to enter Canada soon and wanted to know when they would be admitted.

Mr. Barkway says he did not have the heart to reply that most of them would not be coming to Canada at all. The Canadian Government, Mr. Barkway discovered in Vienna, had quietly ceased to grant unlimited visas for Hungarians, after promising to admit them without limit.

About the same time Mr. Grant Dexter, the most experienced correspondent in Ottawa and long an intimate of the Government, wrote in The Winnipeg Free Press that while there had been no public alteration of the Government's policy of unlimited admission actually the numbers of Hungarians had been limited by departmental action. Few refugees beyond the number of 24,000, already contemplated, would be admitted in the visible future, Mr. Dexter reported.

This newspaper, like The Free Press and The Financial Post, at once protested against this restriction.

Dr. F. T. Fairley, Member of Parliament for Victoria, read our editorial and took it to Mr. John Pickersgill, minister of citizenship and immigration.

Mr. Pickersgill was outraged. He at once wrote to Dr. Fairley denying The Times' statements. The correspondence between Dr. Fairley and Mr. Pickersgill is published fully in our letter columns today for the information of the public. It should be read carefully if the facts are to be understood.

Adding up Mr. Pickersgill's figures, the readers will see that he has agreed so far to admit between 25,000 and 26,000 Hungarians. The figure of 24,000 has been exceeded, but not greatly.

Moreover, it will be seen, in a significant paragraph, that Mr. Pickersgill says "we are only issuing visas at the Vienna office to sponsored Hungarians."

This, we take it, means that from now on the Government will restrict visas to those refugees who can find Canadian citizens willing to take responsibility for them in Canada. This should prove to be a fatal barrier to many of the refugees interviewed by Mr. Barkway in Vienna.

It seems quite clear that the Government, after announcing a policy of unrestricted entry, is indeed trying to restrict this movement without definitely saying so. Nor does Mr. Pickersgill deny Mr. Dexter's statement that the Ontario Government has opposed unrestricted entry and thus influenced Federal policy.

One sentence in Mr. Pickersgill's letter should be specially noted. It is the intention of the Government, he says, "to go on taking Hungarian refugees from Austria throughout the spring in accordance with our capacity to deal with them here in Canada."

That innocuous-sounding phrase, "capacity to deal with them," offers the immigration department ample scope for quietly refusing visas as it sees fit.

If the Government, on third thoughts, has actually returned to a policy of unlimited entry it is to be congratulated.

But we see nothing in Mr. Pickersgill's letter to suggest that this is so.

His statement that Canada is doing more for the refugees than any other country is, of course gratifying but irrelevant. Our international morals in this question cannot be based on those of any other nation. The only question raised by The Free Press, The Financial Post and The Times is whether, in fact, we have a policy of unlimited entry or not. Mr. Pickersgill has not answered it.

Mr. Humphrey Is Unhappy

ANY CANADIAN, SCHOOLED in the British parliamentary system, must be baffled by certain recent events in Washington.

President Eisenhower proposes heavy increases in government spending, though he was elected on a promise of drastic reductions.

Mr. Humphrey, secretary of the treasury, apparently attacks the President's fiscal policy by publicly expressing unhappiness about "increasing" government expenditures. In a formal statement Mr. Humphrey says flatly: "This trend should promptly be stopped." That is to say, his own President's policy should be stopped.

At a remarkable press conference Mr. Humphrey said he opposed any and all increases in present budget items and, when asked whom he thought responsible for the increases in the President's budget, gloomily replied: "Everybody." Mr. Humphrey's views, right or wrong, have been overwhelmed by the democratic process.

In any country governed by the British parliamentary system a cabinet minister who thus expressed total disagreement with his leader and government would resign immediately.

Mr. Humphrey is not resigning and is not required to resign under the American system. For in the United States the principle of cabinet solidarity does not exist. A cabinet minister has no power except the power that may be delegated to him from time to time by the President. All the power of government is concentrated solely in the President, who can accept or reject the advice of his ministers as he pleases.

Obviously Mr. Eisenhower has rejected the advice of his treasurer, who almost openly has invited Congress to reject the advice of the President.

Justice for Widows

IN 1941 THE CANADIAN PARLIAMENT exempted from succession duties a widow's inheritance to the amount of $20,000. That sum, untaxed, was considered to be sufficient for the needs of the average widow. Since then, however, the cost of living has almost doubled. If $20,000 was sufficient in 1941 the figure should be almost doubled now.

Moreover, in an age when many women work for wages and virtually all women work even harder but without wages at home, there is a growing realization, as The Canada Trust's latest bulletin remarks, that "the contribution made by a man's wife to his estate is equal to his own and accordingly she should be allowed to claim half his estate free of duty." This assumption, a sound one, has been given effect where the deceased husband was a resident of Quebec.

The Federal Government promised in 1954 to consider the revision of the Succession Duty Act. So far there has been no revision and the old rates of tax—quite unjust and unrealistic in terms of a shrunken dollar—are still in effect.

It is high time Mr. Harris brought his estate taxes up to date. Too many widows already have suffered unfairly from the Government's delay. The exemption should be greatly increased.

Better still, the Government should recognize the Quebec principle that the average wife, whether she earns wages or not, does indeed accumulate half the husband's estate. Probably her savings and household management provide most of it.

Call It the Equator

IT'S BACK TO THE NATURAL waistline for spring, says the New York fashion designer.

And where, pray, is the natural waistline?

For countless people over 40 the waistline is an imaginary definition, like the equator. But unlike this geographic symbol, which is constant, the waistline rises and falls by the dictates of the fashion designer. How, then, can he or she say which is its natural position.

Perhaps by spring, when folks return to the garden chores, with their deep-bending exercises, some waistline may emerge. Until then, are the fashion designers saying togas will be worn this year?

Soviet Grand Strategy

IT has been an astonishing experience, here in Moscow, to read the reports of Secretary of State Dulles' testimony on the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East. Such hours have been devoted to the discussion of dangers that hardly exist. The very real dangers that do exist have been so rapidly glossed over.

The very violence of the Soviet reaction to President Eisenhower's new doctrine must of course give a look of truth to the administration's warnings about the possibility of Soviet armed aggression in the Arab lands. But the fact is there is not the slightest evidence here to suggest in any way that the Soviets have any intention of using their armed might in the Middle East, either now or for years to come.

Indeed, all the evidence indicates that the Soviet leaders never had any real intention of resorting to force at any time during the Suez crisis, even at the moment when Premier Bulganin sent his threatening note to London and Paris and something unpleasantly like panic reigned in Washington. In truth, the real reason for the intensity of the Soviet reaction to the Eisenhower Doctrine was frankly stated by a brilliant Soviet expert on foreign affairs, who is the only member of the local hierarchy with whom this reporter has yet been able to talk at length.

Buckling Up the Chain

"We think," he said, "that this is a pretext for putting the buckle on the chain of American bases which surrounds the Soviet Union."

This does not mean, however, that the Soviet program in the Middle East will now be abandoned. In a very long and quite absorbing conversation about the present and future world balance of power, there was one point on which the Soviet expert quoted above was visibly sincere. The Soviets, he insisted, would never be content to let well enough (or bad enough) alone in the Middle East or any other troubled area on the Western side of the line that now divides the world.

In the same fashion, in Paris after the first London conference on Suez, Soviet Foreign Minister Shepilov flatly told French leaders that his country "could never under any circumstances abandon its historic mission" of assisting in the "liberation" of peoples seeking to throw off the "colonial yoke."

Question of General War

Maybe the position would be different if it were certain that Soviet interventions on our side of the line could lead to general war, as it might have led to war if the American government had behaved about Hungary as the Soviet government behaved about Egypt. Maybe, indeed, the intervention in the Middle East would never have been attempted, if it had not been for the famous Summit meeting at Geneva.

Here in Moscow, this reporter has certainly found plenty of expert support for the opinion that President Eisenhower and Sir Anthony Eden were all too successful at Geneva, in explaining their remorseless dedication to peace at any price. At any rate, it must have been delightful for the Soviet leaders to hear about this dedication just when a wholly New Middle Eastern program was being tentatively weighed.

Thereafter, the old Far Eastern emphasis of Soviet policy was at least temporarily abandoned. The links were formed with Egypt's President Nasser and the other Arab nationalists. The Middle Eastern program, which essentially consists of encouraging the Arabs to do what they want to do anyway, was adroitly launched.

Vengeance

The danger of the program lies in the fact that vengeance on the Western nations for wrongs real and imagined is the immediate goal of Arab nationalism. The link with the Soviets in turn gives the Arab leaders the self-confidence to seek this vengeance in ways that can well prove fatal to the Western powers and especially to Great Britain. Yet thus encouraging the Arabs to do what they want to do costs the Soviets very little and involves a minimum of risk.

Such is the major present theme of Soviet grand strategy. One can only admire the cool daring and astute calculation of this strategy which gives the Soviet leaders a good chance of rather decisively upsetting the world balance of power at such small cost to themselves. One cannot feel this strategy will be successfully countered, either, simply by telling the Soviets they must not do the one thing they do not mean to do.

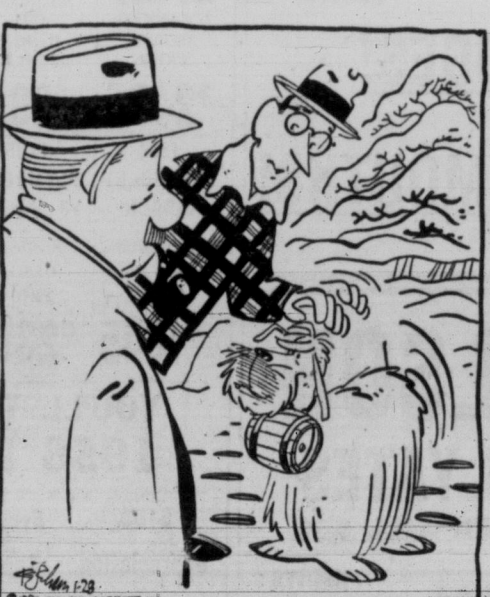

Yet the words have been spoken by the President. If they are now taken back by Congress, the after effects are likely to make the Summit meeting appear, by comparison, like one of the more hard-headed episodes of Bismarckian diplomacy.

DENNIS THE MENACE

From Our Files

Jan. 28, 1897.—Trout fishing in Victoria Arm, when a couple of years ago was very good is being fairly ruined. Last year it was bad enough. It may be worse unless action is taken to curb fishing with nets.

Jan. 28, 1917.—At the Columbia Theatre this week is Charlie Chaplin in his movie, "Revue of 1916," which consists of the funniest scenes from a number of his earlier comedies.

Jan. 28, 1937.—With 60% to 75% of crop lost through frost, prices of oranges have gone wild. The prices now are more than what they were at the beginning of this month, and they may go higher.

Mr. Pickersgill Replies

Under date of January 14th, I received a letter from Mr. V. G. Pinhorn, resident of Victoria, enclosing the editorial which appeared in the Times of Friday, January 11th, 1937, entitled, "The Door is Closed."

I was amazed at the tone of this editorial, as I have been with one or two others which have appeared lately, which, in my opinion, unjustly criticize the Federal Government.

In order to determine the truth about this matter of Hungarian immigrants, I submitted this correspondence, and your editorial, to the Honorable J. W. Pickersgill for his comment, and he has been kind enough to give me a full reply. I enclose a copy and I would be very grateful if you would publish my letter and Mr. Pickersgill's reply, in the Times, so that the people in Victoria can be better informed.

F. T. FAIRLEY, M.P.

Dear Dr. Fairley:

I have been astonished to the point of incredulity to read the editorial from the Victoria Times of January 11th, which was sent to you by Mr. V. G. Pinhorn of Victoria. There are two paragraphs in this editorial which are completely untrue, and which read as follows:

"In the face of this protest from Ontario, the Federal Government suddenly stopped issuing visas to the long queues of Hungarians in Vienna. The first news of this policy reversal came from Vienna, not Ottawa."

"The Federal Government does not deny that the door has been closed. It says only that Canada has done enough to relieve the Hungarian tragedy. Now, apparently, it is up to other nations to take the remainder of the refugees. Especially it is the duty of the United States which only recently agreed to extend its quota beyond 21,500."

The fact is that we have never stopped issuing visas to Hungarians at our office in Vienna. As I explained in the House the other day, we are only issuing visas at the Vienna office to sponsored Hungarians, because we believe it is only fair to send teams of visa officers into the camps in Austria for the rest of the movement in order that those who came to Austria earliest and who have remained in the camps instead of cluttering up Vienna, should have an equal opportunity of coming to Canada.

At the time I returned from Europe, I had made definite arrangements for the issue of visas to 10,000 Hungarians who would arrive in Canada before the end of January.

Since my return, I have authorized the issue of visas and arranged for transport for between 3,000 and 4,000 more, who will arrive in late January or throughout February, and I have just today instructed my Department to make arrangements for the transport of 2,000 more to Canada during March.

In addition to these, I made arrangements while in Europe to have 2,000 Hungarians held in Holland, 3,000 in France and 5,000 in the United Kingdom until spring, when they will start to move to Canada. It is, moreover, the intention of the Government to go on taking Hungarian refugees from Austria throughout the spring in accordance with our capacity to deal with them here in Canada.

We have arranged to take far larger numbers than any other country, though I still hope and expect the United States will eventually take more than we do and, in terms of money to be spent on any proportionate basis, there is no question that, so far, we are doing a good deal more than any other country.

In the face of these facts, the editorial in the Victoria Times is utterly incomprehensible to me, particularly appearing as it does in a newspaper I had always regarded as very friendly and more than usually accurate.

I am enclosing an extra copy of this letter in case you wish to send it to Mr. Pinhorn.

Rail Strike Echoes

The federal government's delay in intervening in the rail strike was inexcusable and was obviously predicated on the fact that this is an election year.

I am of the opinion that the Prime Minister was derelict in his duty in not having acted sooner, having reference to the great damage the strike wrought upon the economic life of the nation.

It was not for the Opposition to outline what its policy was or is to be with reference to a matter which was and is the sole responsibility of the government.

While the majority of the general public was not in sympathy with the striking firemen and was outraged at the spectacle presented when by a strike of 3,000 employees so much damage accrued to the body politic, I am of the opinion that the firemen have a case in that their demands upon the CPR have been met by every other railroad in North America and they have some argument as to whether or not it is safe to withdraw firemen from locomotives, leaving the sole responsibility of the operation of the train to the engineer.

I understand that in the most modern diesels, however, there is an all-round view and the engineer is placed in the center of the cab and can see on both sides. However, there are some diesels, I believe, which do not have this advantage, such as those operated on the E & N. In that case if the engineer cannot see both sides of his view ahead and behind, then from the safety point of view there seems to be merit in the firemen's complaint.

There is another angle which should receive consideration and that is that our railway engineers are trained first as firemen and spend some years before they become engineers.

What surprises me is that the Board of Transport Commissioners has not been applied to for a ruling on the safety factor. The Board which is a quasi-judicial body, I believe, has complete jurisdiction and can pass regulations in such matters.

The strikers, of course, are in fault in not agreeing to a binding decision by the board that has been set up by the government. Both sides should agree to accept the finding of either body as binding upon them.

I am pleased to note that General Peakes dealt with several points of this letter in a recent speech.

ROBERT D. HARVEY,
620 View Street.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Intensified Cold War

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER was asked at his press conference by Mr. Robert J. Donovan, of the New York Herald Tribune, whether, as compared with the Geneva conference in 1955, there is a "marked hardening of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, an intensification of the cold war." The President, quite evidently for diplomatic reasons, replied he really could not say.

There is, however, no doubt at all that relations with the Soviet Union have taken a sharp turn for the worse. The turn has come since the autumn, and is directly traceable to the two crises which occurred almost simultaneously in October—the one in Eastern Europe and the other in the Middle East.

The spirit of Geneva rested at bottom on a mutual understanding not to alter the status quo by force. Each of the two crises of the autumn was an upheaval of the status quo. The one upheaval touched the vital interests of the Soviet Union, the other the vital interests of Western Europe and the Western world.

Test in Poland

The East European upheaval, which reached a climax in the Hungarian rebellion, threatened the whole position of the Soviet Union in Europe. Seen from Moscow, it threatened to create, as the saying goes, a vacuum of power which would probably be filled by anti-Russian governments. In the face of this very real threat, the Soviet government, with its military chieftains setting the pace, reversed the liberating policy of anti-Stalinism. It crushed the Hungarian rebellion, and asserted its overriding authority in the whole area. A measure of its success is the Polish election last week where the defence of Poland against the Hungarian treatment was believed to depend upon proving to the Russians that Poland is both Communist and loyal to the Soviet Union.

In this East European crisis there was submerged, perhaps for some time to come, the hope of an accommodation between the Soviet Union and the West. For that hope rested on the possibility that Russia would accept generally all over Eastern Europe some variant of the neutralism which prevails in Austria, Finland and Yugoslavia. The Hungarian crisis seems to have convinced the Kremlin that if in Eastern Europe they relax their domination, they may lose all their influence.

We may say that, as a result, the Soviet Union has filled the vacuum by reasserting its own domination. As this means that an East-West accommodation has become much more difficult, the cold war is intensified. But the Soviet Union has re-established its authority inside its orbit.

Authority Not Reasserted

Looked at broadly, the Middle Eastern upheaval has meant the collapse of the British power, and this carries with it the threat that almost the whole region might turn against the West. The Eisenhower Doctrine is an effort to reassert, not Western authority which is gone, but a modicum of Western influence. Though Britain and France made a clumsy try, the West has not done in the Middle East what the Russians have done in Eastern Europe. The West has not reasserted its authority by force. The Eisenhower Doctrine is merely an assertion of the American presence in the Middle East, and an attempt to do something with the Arab states by a mixture of prestige, persuasion and inducements.

During the autumn crises the Soviet Union was able to isolate and insulate Eastern Europe against any form of outside intervention. The UN has been impotent, and its impotence has been advertised to the world by the noise of its many resounding resolutions. The Middle East, on the contrary, has not been isolated and insulated. The great fact about the Middle East is that Russia, with strong support in the United Nations, is able to move actively to counteract the efforts which the President means to make to maintain Western influence in the area.

Neutralism

There is no use underestimating the diplomatic force of the warning against allowing bases for nuclear weapons, which was issued in Moscow this week. This warning is addressed to the key countries in the great semi-circle which extends from Japan and Okinawa through Iran and Turkey to Western Europe. The warning consists of a reminder to these exposed countries that in case of war, unless they are military neutrals, they will be defenceless targets for Soviet missiles. This is a powerful argument for neutralism, and it is not easy to see how the administration proposes to deal with that argument.

Yet it is no exaggeration to say that the issue of neutralism is the paramount issue in the whole world that lies close to the Soviet Union.

Threat Jolts Stamps

Grab Win Over 'Peg; Royals Tie

By The Canadian Press

Prodded by threats of suspension to four players, Calgary Stampede didn't fade in the stretch Saturday night.

They overcame Winnipeg Warriors' one goal lead half-way through the third period, turned on unrelenting pressure for the next 16 minutes and skated off with a 3-2 overtime victory.

But the Stampede are still far short of satisfying their burly coach and defenceman, Lee Fogolin.

Saturday night's win left them 19 points off the prairie division pace set by Edmonton and eight games behind the second-place Brandon Regals.

The Regals rang up three points out of a possible four in their coast tour by holding New Westminster Royals to a 3-3 overtime draw.

New Westminster's 3-3 tie with Brandon boosted them three points ahead of the third-place Vancouver Canucks but left a seven-point gap between the Royals and coast-leading Seattle Americans.

The Royals went ahead 3-2 in the second period on two goals by Arnie Schmutz and one by Gord Fashaway.

MANSON TIES IT

In the third period, Ray Manson fired the tying goal adding to earlier markers by Les Willey and Vic Lynn.

The Regals meet Vancouver Canucks Tuesday night in the third game of their coast tour while Victoria Cougars start a swing through the prairie circuit at Edmonton.

Earlier last week, Fogolin expressed his discontent with four of his Stamp regulars in no uncertain terms.

He threatened to replace them with juniors "who'll play with all their heart" if the regulars didn't improve.

Defenceman Mid Houghton and winger Milan Marcetta, two of the players wincing under Fogolin's ire, stood out in Calgary's win over Winnipeg.

Houghton set up the winning goal with a relay to Steve Witluk who out-guessed goalie Ed Johnson. Marcetta gave Calgary a 1-0 lead in the first period.

Winnipeg's Bill Mosienko reduced Calgary's lead to a 1-1 tie in the second and Richie Van Impe's goal early in the third period put Winnipeg on top of a 2-1 score. Doc Couture notched the tying goal at the 12:08 mark of the third.

The Stampede travel to Winnipeg for the only WHL game scheduled tonight.

Perini Quits; Cairnes Named Braves' Prexy

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lou Perini resigned as president of Milwaukee Braves Saturday night and announced that Joseph Cairnes, executive vice-president, had been elected to the post.

Perini was named chairman of the board of the National Baseball League club by the directors. He said he would continue active in an advisory capacity.

In a statement Perini said the change was made because he believes there are many advantages to the president residing in the organization's home community.

Cairnes is a permanent resident of Milwaukee while Perini makes his home at Farmington, Mass.

Cairnes joined the Braves in 1947 as business manager of the club's farm system. He was named executive vice-president in 1953, the year the team moved to Milwaukee.

'Agar Night' Success For George, Canadians

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — George Agar celebrated "Agar Night" in the Civic Arena here as he led Vernon Canadians to a 5-3 victory over Penticton V's before a hometown crowd of 1,800 shivering hockey fans.

Agar received a truck-load of gifts from Okanagan League fans of Vernon. Alf Cottrell, Vancouver sports editor, and Helen Stewart presented the Hector McDonald Memorial Trophy to him.

Sherman Blair of the Canadians blasted home what proved to be the winning goal in the third period. Ode Lowe opened the scoring at the 15-second mark of the first period with Wally Wakshinski of the V's tying it up. Art Davison came right back for the Canadians to put them ahead 2-1 to end the period.

Jimmy Fairburn opened the middle session to again tie the game for the V's, then Agar

ORFU to 'Get Tough' In Quest for Grey Cup

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union agreed Saturday on a new "get-tough" policy to back up its challenge for the Grey Cup and its eventual survival in Canadian football.

The ORFU senior clubs, serving notice they no longer will allow the league to be pushed around, hit back at the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Unions with a decision not to trade or sell any of their players until further notice.

Maurice Chilton of Sarnia, first vice-president of the ORFU, made no mention of the Big Four and WIFU in disclosing the decision following a special league meeting, which also turned down requests from groups in Buffalo and Detroit to join the league.

However, the move is apparently aimed at the two major professional leagues who at the Canadian Football Council annual meeting in Winnipeg last week decided not to support the ORFU's bid to return to Grey Cup competition.

PLAYER SOURCE

The ORFU's action deprives the Big Four and WIFU of one of their principal sources of Canadian players. Behind the move is the obvious intention of the ORFU to use it as bargaining power to deter the two big leagues from attempting to amend the Canadian Rugby Union constitution to keep it from challenging for the Grey Cup.

The ORFU has the right under the constitution to play for the cup. It consented voluntarily to drop out in 1955 and 1956 but with new plans to field stronger teams that would include the full 12-man import limit the league wants the Grey Cup semifinal held again.

The issue is of vital importance to ORFU clubs. They feel the eventual survival of ORFU, Canada's oldest league and once a big power in the game, is at stake. Many team officials and fans consider there is little purpose to the league unless it has a chance at the Grey Cup.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The engagement of Herb Cross, 23-year-old pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, and Miss Nancy Ann McNamara, 20, was announced today.

In the other WHL game, Rock Crawford also picked up a hat trick to pace the Spokane Flyers to a top-sided 10-3 win over the cellar-dwelling Rossland Warriors.

BABE ZAHARIAS AWARDED GOLF HONOR

NEW YORK (AP) — Another honor came to Babe Didrikson Zaharias today — four months after her death — when the fabulous woman athlete was awarded the Bob Jones Trophy for outstanding sportsmanship in golf.

The Babe's husband, ex-wrestler George Zaharias, accepted the posthumous award and then, choking back the tears, told delegates at the annual meeting of the U.S. Golf Association:

"Babe won many awards in many sports, but this would have been the crowning glory of her career."

Biggest Bonspiel Underway

WINNIPEG (CP) — The 69th annual Manitoba Curling Association bonspiel opens here today as 368 rinks match rocks in four opening-day draws.

Billed as the world's biggest bonspiel, rinks will be fighting for 12 cups and a crack at the provincial playoffs Feb. 4, and the right to represent Manitoba in the Canadian curling championships next month at Kingston, Ont.

There are 165 outside rinks competing, one from Sweden, two from the United States, two from Saskatchewan, one from British Columbia and 159 from various Manitoba points.

The Winnipeg entry list, down 11 from last year, is headed by 28 rinks from the Granite Club.

Four former Canadian champions and three others who have had Canadian championship competition are entered. They are Billy Walsh of Winnipeg, defending Canadian champion who also took the title in 1952, Ab Gowanlock of Dauphin, who won in 1938 and 1953, Howard Wood Sr. of Winnipeg, who also was a two-time champion in 1938 and 1940, and Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg, who won in 1947.

The entry from Stockholm, Sweden, skipped by Erling Benner, traveled here to study curling in Canada and the setting up of a large bonspiel.

The U.S. rinks are skipped by Lyle Parker of Milwaukee and Jim Siman of St. Paul, Minn. From Saskatchewan is the J. D. Konkin rink of Kamsack and the Mac Houston rink of Kisbey. Andy Ferguson skips the Vancouver entrant.

Stan the Man Not a Card Yet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan "the Man" Musial is the only player unsigned for 1957 by the St. Louis Cardinals after a five-man contingent agreed to terms today.

General manager Frank Lane said that the $80,000-a-year star of the club probably will sign within the next few days, also.

Marshall 'Improved'

MELBOURNE (AP) — John Marshall, Australia's injured Olympic swimmer, was reported "slightly improved" but still in a serious condition Sunday.

Marshall suffered severe head injuries Friday night when his car overturned following a tire blowout. Doctors gave the swimmer, who broke 28 world freestyle records between 1950 and 1954, a 50-50 chance to survive.

Conqueror of Marlene Rallies to Take Final

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UP) — The women's amateur golf tourists headed for Hollywood, Fla., and the four-ball tournament today still talking about Ann Quast's tremendous rally to win the Doherty tourney here on Sunday.

The 19-year-old Miss Quast of Maryville, Wash., beat defending champion Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., on the 38th hole in probably the greatest match ever presented in the 25-year-old Doherty.

The 20-year-old Miss Goodwin apparently had the title wrapped up on a three-up lead with only six holes to play, but Miss Quast called on some hidden reserve for strength and Miss Goodwin's putter faltered.

"It's the greatest comeback I ever made in golf," said the fired winner.

She said the turning point came when she sank a 12-foot putt to halve the 33rd hole and stay in the match two-down with three to go.

Miss Quast defeated Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., in Saturday's semifinals. Miss Stewart is women's national amateur champion.

Miss Quast won the 34th with a par three when Miss Goodwin hit her tee shot into a trap. On the 36th, the match was evened as Miss Goodwin's five-foot putt hung agonizingly on the lip of the cup. Miss Quast had run up a 70-foot approach shot to within six inches to get an easy winning four.

Miss Goodwin again had a chance to win on the 37th, but there her three-foot putt stuck on the edge of the cup.

Miss Quast went on to victory by lashing out a down-the-middle par on the 38th. Miss Goodwin banged her tee shot into a trap and took four more shots for a bogey.

Although Simmons' National Hockey League debut was somewhat marred when New York Rangers defeated Bruins 5-3 at Boston Saturday, the 25-year-old rookie withstood the powerful attack of Montreal Canadiens in the same arena Sunday to spark his mates to a 5-2 win.

While Simmons drew plaudits from the capacity crowd Sunday, Red Wings were handing Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-1 loss at Detroit and Rangers squeezed by Black Hawks 3-2 at Chicago.

In other Saturday games, Wings overpowered Leafs 4-1 at Toronto and Hawks pulled out a 4-4 tie against Canadiens at Montreal.

Bruins picked Simmons up last week in a deal with Springfield Indians of the American League to replace Jerry Sawchuk, a big drawing card in Boston, who quit the team recently.

In the U.S.-televized Saturday contest, Simmons turned aside 32 shots. The Boston crowd of 11,004 was disappointed at the outcome but reserved judgment on Simmons.

SELLOUT CROWD

It was a different story Sunday. Despite the loss the day before, a sellout Boston crowd of 13,090 showed up. Larry Regan, Mackell, Fernie Flaman, Cal Gardner and Stasiuk scored for Boston. Claude Provost and Dickie Moore were the Montreal scorers.

Simmons blocked 27 shots, including 13 in the second period as Montreal applied the pressure. Hab netminder Jacques Plante made 17 saves.

Before 13,967 fans at Detroit Sunday, Wings built up a 2-0 lead in the first 13 minutes and then held off the desperate Leafs. Norm Ullman, Dutch Reibel and John Bucyk scored the Wing goals while Rudy Migay counted for Toronto.

Left winger Dick Duft ruined Detroit goal-tender Glenn Hall's bid for a shutout with less than five minutes remaining in the game.

The largest Chicago crowd of the season, 11,289 fans, turned up Sunday to see Rangers continue their superiority over Black Hawks. Parker MacDonald, Henry and Gerry Foley were the Ranger marksmen. Johnny Wilson and Glenn Skov scored for Hawks.

Scot Curlers Gain Ground

OTTAWA (CP) — Touring Scots curlers defeated five Ottawa rinks 65-39 Saturday but remained far behind in their hunt for the Strathcona Cup. They won three, lost one and tied one game.

The Scots are behind 988-779 in competition for the cup, emblematic of curling supremacy between Canada and Scotland.

Canada was virtually assured of recapturing the cup, last won in 1950 by Scotland, as the Scots headed for their last three matches in Moncton, N.B., and Halifax.

Lema Nips Harney In Imperial Open

EL CENTRO, Calif. (CP) — Tony Lema of Elko, Nev., shot a pair of birdies to break a first-place tie and win the Imperial Valley open golf tournament Sunday.

George Knudson of Winnipeg got 73 for 294, placing second among the six amateurs. Another Winnipeg amateur, Jim Collins, had 74 Sunday for 315.

Al Balding of Toronto carded 72 Sunday for 286, putting him in a tie for 18th place among the professionals, just out of the money.

Lema, 23, fired a six-under-par 65 to tie Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass. Then he shot a pair of birdies to win the $1,000 first prize.

Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver and Jack Kay of Montreal were eliminated Saturday when 40 professionals qualified for Sunday's final round in the $5,000 tournament.

BCGA Elects Howat President

VANCOUVER (CP) — Joe Howat of Vancouver was elected president of the British Columbia Golf Association Friday night, succeeding Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria.

Vice-president of the association for the last two years and secretary-treasurer for many years previously, Howat was commended by secretary-treasurer Alan Campbell as "one who has contributed much to the game."

Vice-presidents include R. S. Williams, Victoria; Robert Kidd, Vancouver; Les Peterson, Kamloops, and D. S. McGibney, Trail.

Bower Reaches Shutout Mark

(By THE CANADIAN PRESS)

Goaltender Johnny Bower matched the American Hockey League's all-time record for shutouts Sunday night as Providence Reds blanked Springfield Indians 6-0 and increased their first-place lead to five points.

It was Bower's 36th shutout in 10 years he has been in the league and it equalled the record set by Hershey's Nick Damore.

Paul Larivee scored three goals in pacing Reds' attack at Providence. Zello Toppazzini, Bruce Cline and Aldo Guidolin got the others.

In two other Sunday engagements, Rochester Americans defeated Hershey Bears 5-2 at Rochester and Cleveland Barons downed the Bisons 3-2 at Buffalo.

Bronco Horvath, Gary Alderson, Ed Mazur, Benny Wolf and Junior Langlois tallied for Rochester. Willie Marshall and Ed Panagabko got the Hershey markers.

Cleveland marksmen were Bill Shvetz, Danny Poliziani and Jim Moore. Ken Wharram and Lou Jankowski accounted for the Buffalo goals.

In games Saturday night, Springfield's newly-acquired goaltender, Norm Defelice, turned in a brilliant night as Indians whipped Barons 6-0 at Springfield. Reds beat Bisons 6-2 at Providence and Americans edged Bears 4-3 at Hershey.

Greaves Gets Chance At Fullmer Tonight

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Middleweight boxing champion Gene Fullmer will return to the ring here tonight for the first time since he decided Sugar Ray Robinson for the crown on Jan. 2.

Fullmer's opponent in the 10-round, non-title match will be Wilf Greaves of Edmonton, a former Canadian amateur champion.

The husky Mormon, from nearby West Jordan, who has a 38-3 ring record, is generally conceded to be favorite in the bout which starts at 9:30 p.m. M.T. Greaves has an 11-4-1 showing in previous fights.

Both boys are muscular scrappers who like to mix it up. Fullmer took some steam out of Robinson in their Madison Square Garden fight when he bullied the ex-champ through the ropes.

Greaves and his manager, Jake Mintz, figure there is a possibility of the same thing happening tonight. So the Surprise loser to countryman Neale Fraser in Saturday's semifinals of the Australian singles championship, Hoad, underwent a thorough physical examination today.

An osteopathic specialist ordered him to rest for six weeks. The examination showed that the 22-year-old star has a pulled muscle which is irritating a spinal nerve.

Hoad said he would undergo another examination by a different specialist before definitely deciding to stop playing until March.

PLANS TOUR

Hoad plans to start an overseas tour late in March as a warm-up for his defence of the Wimbledon championship. He'll be accompanied by his wife, Jennifer.

The injury—either a strained back muscle or a slipped disk—recurred in the national championships. So painful was his condition that his wife had to put on his socks and shoes for him before the Fraser match.

Hoad made light of the ailment but one Australian official said Hoad would have defaulted had the tournament been any other except the national.

"I have some back trouble," Hoad said. "But it didn't bother me. Fraser played well and I was not at my best."

The world's No. 1 ranking amateur turned down a $67,000 professional offer last year.

Hoop Schedule

Tonight's Victoria and District Basketball League card at Victoria High School gym follows:

8:00—Sooke vs. St. Louis College, juvenile boys.
9:00—Brentwood vs. Chinese Students, senior C men.

Greaves Gets Chance At Fullmer Tonight

handsome Canadian says he will concentrate on staying clear of Fullmer's thrashing jabs, hooks, cuts and crosses in the hope he can stun the champ with one of those hard jabs he frequently unleashes.

Greaves would like to make an impressive showing against the titleholder and cause a demand for a return, championship go.

NEW ARRIVAL: Wonderful doggie for a house full of youngsters is Sandy, eight months old, female, friendly in all directions and very good with the kids.

READY FOR ADOPTION: Male Golden Cocker, 11 months, is Zombi... very anxious to please but a bit highly strung. Needs adult companionship or youngsters who are understanding about dogs.

Cross between Cocker and Collie: "Barky"—actually a very quiet little female, four months old. Black and brown.

Rather unusual, very appealing combination of Labrador and Chesapeake. A medium-sized doggie, female, eight months. Name's Tiny.

Four-year-old, black and white cross Spaniel. One bad habit—chases cars. Could you train him?

Ask for Skipper.

Curly is 15 months, black, a Setter-Collie in a handsome combination.

Very quiet, shy, and retiring is Nipper, a lovely little Border Collie type. Doesn't seem to like men, and needs lots of affection.

What Are Vitamins?

We all get bored with the same food day after day. What we enjoy most is a helping of this and a helping of that. Now, adays we have a splendid excuse to eat a varied diet of as many different foods as possible. This came about with the discovery of vitamins within the past 50 years. Vitamins are complex chemicals that the body needs to put the food we eat to proper use. Only a small amount of baking powder is added to a cake recipe. But without it we get a solid mass of indigestible dough. Only small amounts of vitamins are needed with our foods. But without them the body cannot put those foods to proper use.

Lucky for us, vitamins are scattered throughout most of the good foods we like to eat. Some foods seem to specialize in one vitamin, some in another. Some are rich in several. All but one of the known vitamins are made originally by plants. We eat them along with fruits, vegetables and salads and we get them from the meat, milk and eggs given to us by animals who have fed on grasses and fodder. Most vitamins are fragile and tend to lose their usefulness as foods go stale. Some are ruined in boiling water and the best fresh-vegetable vitamins are destroyed if soda is put into the cooking water. Canned, frozen and dried foods are all prepared with a close eye on preserving the vitamins. The body uses vitamin A to keep your eyes bright and sharp. A shortage of it in the diet may weaken the vision, especially in a dim light. It may even dry up the water supply in the tear glands. The body gets its supply of vitamin A when we eat green vegetables, salads, livers, eggs, milk foods, sweet potatoes and carrots. These foods contain a stuff called carotene and the body transforms carotene into vitamin A.

Vitamin B1, called thiamine, comes in enriched white bread and whole wheat bread. The body uses it to keep nerve cells in good condition. A shortage may cause a horrible sickness of the nerves. Vitamin B2, called riboflavin, is taken from helpings of meat and milk foods. The body uses it to turn fuel foods into energy. A shortage of B2 may cause mouth sore-ness and cracking lips.

Our daily quota of vitamin C comes in a glass of delicious orange juice. It is also present in grapefruit, lemon and lime. The body uses it to strengthen bones, teeth and maybe skin tissues. A shortage of vitamin C in the diet is felt in the gums, joints and blood vessels.

You can get vitamin D along with a suntan. For the body can take and use it directly from sunshine falling upon the skin.

SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

GORDON HEAD GROUP—

Application for the use of the old Gordon Head school building has been made to Saanich Council by the group committee. The building was recently declared surplus by the school board and returned to the municipality.

The council has referred the matter to the municipal solicitor for title clearance, and to find out if the applicants wish to rent or buy the premises.

At a meeting of the Canadian General Council in Winnipeg, under the chairmanship of R. C. Stevenson, officials voted against lowering the age requirements for scoutmasters.

Saskatchewan's scouting council wanted the age limit to be 18 years for scoutmaster, and 16 years for assistant scoutmaster.

It was probably the most controversial issue in Canadian scouting during 1956.

During the discussion of this year's jamboree in England, it was revealed only British Columbia is having trouble obtaining enough boys for the three-week trip.

Dress Strap Snaps; Repair Kitt Needed

LONDON (AP)—American singer Eartha Kitt scored a great hit on a British commercial television's big Sunday night program—her shoulder-strap snapped.

The slim little strap, which provided 50 per cent of the staying power for her skin-tight gown, called it quits shortly after the visiting singer began her song, "Monotonous."

Millions of TV viewers found the incident anything but that as Miss Kitt grabbed the dangling strap, gave an upward jerk and held on firmly for two tense minutes until she finished her song.

She said later she felt the strap go even before the studio audience gasped:

"It was a terrible moment," she said. "I felt like an idiot."

Massey Inspects Stratford Theatre

STRATFORD (CP)—Governor-General Vincent Massey Saturday laid the foundation stone of a $1,500,000 circular theatre and paid tribute to the Stratford Shakespearean Festival as "a national achievement, an incredible success."

The new theatre, on the banks of Western Ontario's Avon River, will replace a giant tent in which some 200,000 persons from many parts of the world have attended 182 performances of Shakespearean plays since the festival was started three years ago.

The governor-general made a tour around the top of the walls of the half-completed theatre, led by Lee Racine of Edmonton, construction superintendent for Foundation Company of Canada. The firm is building the theatre for $1 million.

The new theatre is scheduled to be completed in May for the start of the summer season. About $750,000 of its cost has been raised so far by public subscription.

ONLY MAN in the Ice Capades to appear on the ice without skates, Esco Larue, the uncomplaining comic above, is also the man who gets the biggest boffs. Pretty blonde is Patty Cox, and coaxing her to his own level is Brian Power. The ice show opens in Memorial Arena Tuesday.

Comic-Juggler Team Returns With Ice Show

Two of the favorites of previous ice shows which played this city, Esco and Trixie Larue will return with Ice Capades which opens in Memorial Arena Tuesday, for a five-day run.

The comic Esco, who pops in to the show from the audience, usually as a wandering drunk, and Trixie, the tiny blond juggler, did not come here last year due to an earlier engagement—the arrival of their second child.

But in 1955, Esco and Trixie not only thrilled arena audiences, they took time to visit children in Queen Alexandra Solarium. They are probably the only two in the show who can perform as well without their skates, and they wore themselves out making smiles on the faces of the young patients.

Trixie's act is one of the highlights of some 20 starring acts in this year's show. Other stars enjoyed here before include Aja Zanova, a world champion; Silvia and Michel, European champs, and a U.S. Olympic star skater, Jogn Lettengarver.

Story feature of this year's Capades is James M. Barrie's Peter Pan.

Motion Picture Firm Organized In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A new motion picture company has been formed here and will start production soon on a feature-length dramatic film, it was reported today.

Boy Killed By Bullet In Theatre

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Five-year-old Peter John Murray died today of a bullet wound suffered Sunday as he watched an adventure film in a crowded theatre.

Police said the bullet came from a stolen .22-calibre pistol, fired, apparently by accident, by a 14-year-old boy playing with the weapon several rows behind the victim.

Police said four guns and some ammunition were stolen during the weekend from a local sporting goods store. They arrested three teen-agers several hours after the shooting and charged them in connection with the theft.

ACCIDENTS DUE TO ICE RUSH EMERGENCY WARDS

Hospitals here have quadrupled their work in the emergency wards because of people breaking bones in falls on ice.

In the past 72 hours the Royal Jubilee has handled too many cases to count. Friday there were nine fractures; Saturday, seven. The nurses and doctors were so rushed Sunday and Monday they had no time to compute the breaks.

In St. Joseph's Hospital since Friday at 8 p.m. there have been 13 broken arms, one hip fracture, four broken legs, and several back injuries.

MONTE ROBERTS

I see via the public prints, and I hear via the radio and the television, where Robins have been noticed around and about Victoria gardens of late.

This despite the fact the gardens themselves look most un-robin-like, and any Robin caught here at this time of year should have his head read. (The verdict would be, the Robin in question is nothing but a bird-brain.)

However, seeing Robins in gardens seems to be quite the rage around here these days, and I am not one to refuse to go along with the trend of the times.

So I have been doing the best I can to see a Robin in my garden. Yesterday I spent several hours in my garden, waiting to see a Robin, but to no avail.

After the ice was chopped away from me, and I had been dunked into a hot tub to thaw out, I did see something which should be duly recorded in the public prints, if not on the radio and the television.

I saw a mosquito.

This mosquito was resting on the wall of the bathroom, waving his wings lazily in the cloud of steam caused by the juxtaposition of hot water and my cold carcass.

He looked like a friendly type of mosquito, so I had the temerity to address him, thusly:

"Skeeter, skeeter, on the wall, why are you staying here at all?"

"I'm an optimistic-type skeeter," the mosquito replied. "Also," he added, "I believe in saving my energies for my old age."

"Most mosquitos," he explained, "dissipate their strength each winter by flying down to tropical climes. Then, in the spring, they have to fly all the way back again."

"Why," I asked, "do they have to fly all the way back again?"

"If they didn't," said the mosquito, "there would be a complete collapse in the mosquito netting market. Which would never do, would it?"

"I suppose not," I felt compelled to agree.

"So this year," said the mosquito, "I decided on a noble experiment. Encouraged by the chamber of commerce and the publicity bureau, I decided to find out if Victoria is really Canada's banana belt."

"I decided to pave the way for future mosquitos to live in Victoria the year-round."

"After all," said the mosquito, "everyone knows golf is played the year-round in Victoria, roses bloom the year-round in Victoria..."

The mosquito interrupted himself and said:

"There are times when I think you just can't trust ANYONE. Turn on a bit more hot water, will you?"

I obeyed, and the mosquito said:

"Now you're buzzin', cousin."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Weekly meeting of civil defence volunteer workers scheduled at C. D. headquarters at 8 p.m. tonight at 7.30 has been cancelled for this week only.

Employee of the national health and welfare department here, Fred T. Spencer, 235 Belleville Street, has been awarded a diploma in business management by LaSalle Extension University of Chicago. He completed the course in his spare time.

Professor Gordon Tracey of Victoria College speaks Thursday to an inter-club meeting of the Oak Bay Kiwanis and Victoria North Kiwanis at 6.15 in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. His subject will be "The Importance of Language."

Royal Victoria frostbite sailors ran off five races Saturday in freezing temperatures and fair winds.

In the Sabot class for juniors, Christ Scott won both races.

Equimault council will meet privately tonight at Municipal Hall to consider wage demands for inside and outside workers, submitted earlier this month by Equimault Municipal Employees' Union No. 333.

Central demands are wage increases of 10 per cent across-the-board for inside workers, and 25 cents an hour across-the-board for outside workers.

Firemen Offered Five Per Cent Wage Increase

Victoria firemen have been offered a 5 per cent wage increase by city council in settlement of their demands for a 15 per cent increase, it was learned at City Hall today.

City manager C. C. Wyatt says he is awaiting a reply from the union.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said the city is no closer to settlement with police bargaining committee which also asked 15 per cent.

First class policemen and firemen are paid $332.94 at present.

Inside and outside workers for the city last week accepted a 5 per cent wage hike but 11 public health nurses turned down a similar offer. They have asked almost 16 per cent and the city has now applied for a conciliation officer.

Eleven-month-old Mark Sangret, 3447 Bathurst, was rushed by Saanich police to St. Joseph's Hospital at 9.40 a.m. today after he was believed to have swallowed a quantity of household cleaner.

The tot got into a box of Spick 'n' Span while his mother tended the furnace, police said.

Hospital emergency found "none had gone down" and sent him home.

More than 100 foresters from all parts of British Columbia will attend the annual meeting of the Association of British Columbia Foresters at the Empress Hotel Friday. Guest speaker will be F. D. Mulholland, who served as technical adviser for the recent Royal Commission on forestry.

Victoria-born J. M. Bankes, a graduate of Oak Bay High School and Victoria College, has been named manager of the main Toronto branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

He previously managed the Royal's Ottawa branch since 1953.

Mr. Bankes worked with the Royal three years in Victoria, from 1934, before moving to Vancouver.

The B.C. Cabinet today approved a further grant of $3,500 for the newly-created Greater Nanaimo Regional Planning Board.

When the board was set up last Nov. 1, the government donated $2,500.

Annual meeting of All Saints' Church, View Royal, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until next Monday at 8 p.m. at View Royal community hall.

Charles Bland Jr., no fixed address, pleaded guilty to theft under the value of $50 when he appeared in city court today and was remanded to Jan. 30 for sentence.

Police said he stole an $18.50 silver cocktail shaker Saturday from Mc & Me store, Government Street. A clerk observed him take the shaker and place it under his coat. He was stopped on the street and police were called.

HUSKY BILL MUIR, chilled by the icy waters of Courtenay River, was given helping hand from tugboat to Courtenay wharf by Claude Fitzgerald. (Times Photo.)

Cold Defeats Muir Marathon

Icebreaker Needed to Clear Way On Five-Mile Courtenay River Try

Marathon swimmer Bill Muir, scorning grease or oil to keep out the cold, Sunday gave up halfway through an attempted five-mile swim from Courtenay to Comox.

"I've never been so cold in my life," he said through numb lips as helpers pulled him from the ice-caked Courtenay River down which he was swimming.

A pilot boat on two occasions had to smash through light ice cakes so that the husky swimmer could continue. The river was frozen across near the point where he started out.

Muir had planned to swim down the stream to Comox Harbor.

The water temperature was 38 degrees. On land it was eight degrees colder.

KEPT UP STROKE The former Saanich surveyor, who is employed at Courtenay by the B.C. government, maintained his stroke of from 32 to 34 strokes per minute for the 46 minutes he was in the water.

"It was the first time I ever had to part the ice to get ahead," he said in the warmth of a hotel room two hours later.

A crowd of 1,000 spectators that lined Dyke Road along his course cheered the 222-pound swimmer with blaring car horns, although some were heard to say he "must be nuts to try such a swim."

BURNED KNEES On being lifted into a small open boat he was taken to the cabin of a Vancouver Barge Co. tug for a rubdown. He huddled so closely against a stove in the cabin that he burned both knees, although he did not realize until later that he was injured.

He said he will not attempt the swim again unless the water warms up "quite a bit," but will continue the five-minute dips he has been making daily in Courtenay River as training for his next assault on Juan de Fuca Strait, all his previous attempts having failed.

He is definite about making an attempt to swim from Courtenay to Powell River in June, a distance of 25 miles, and hopes to try a Nanaimo-Vancouver swim later in the summer.

Explosive Fire Rages In City Bowladrome

$80,000 Damage At Gibson's Alleys

A smouldering cigaret butt dropped Sunday night in a pinball pit following private club bowling is blamed for an explosive fire which demolished part of the 40-alley Gibson's Bowladrome early today.

Fire damage was heaviest to rear walls. But surface and heat damage to 20 main floor alleys indicated each would have to be renewed.

Early estimates set the cost as high as $80,000. Each expensively-engineered alley costs $4,000 to build.

No one was in the 914 Yates Street building when the fire started, which delayed the sounding of an alarm.

Striking Evidence of Intense Heat

The fire department attended at about 12.15 a.m.

The interior was so filled with smoke and gases the whole building threatened to explode.

Evidence of the intense heat of the smoke was everywhere today.

A plastic-faced wall clock near the front of the building had melted and run down the wall.

A cash register, also at the other end of the alleys from the flame, had its composition sides buckled and melted.

Paper notices, score pads and calendars were charred and dried almost to the point of crumbling.

Bowling balls still were warm to the touch.

The north wall of the main floor was burned through to the cement brick exterior wall. The wall behind the pits was completely gone.

Thick wax surfaces on the alleys, described by the fire chief as the greatest danger in an alley fire, were blackened up two-thirds of their length.

The surface of every item on the main floor and most of the second floor was covered with a thin greasy coat of tarry smoke deposit.

Plate glass windows fronting the building were all cracked.

Paint on the interior surfaces of the front doors was blistered.

"Ninety per cent of bowling alleys when they get going usually are a total loss," said Chief Briers. "We were lucky. If it hadn't been a reinforced concrete building, it would be gone."

Alarm Sounded 'Just in Time'

He felt a few moments more delay in summoning the department and the alleys would have been beyond saving.

"If the front windows had blown instead of the back door, the rush of oxygen through the openings would have made it a fire beyond halting."

Owner John A. Achtem said the $800,000 building was fully insured. A crew of 25 men were on the job of cleaning and repairing before firemen moved out.

Mr. Achtem said he anticipated the upper floor alleys would be ready to play this afternoon.

The fighting of the fire caused no water damage and basement areas went unscathed.

In a lower floor billiard parlor there was not even a trace of smoke damage. Mr. Achtem said this was due to the care observed by firemen, for whom he had high praise.

Chief Briers' theory was a cigaret butt was dropped in a pinball's pit area. Rubber and stuffing in bumper pads there had provided a ready agent for

Red Cross Drive To Open March 1

Letters will be sent from Red Cross headquarters Friday to industrial and commercial firms in Greater Victoria, paving the way for a canvass of employees in March.

The Canadian Red Cross campaign opens here March 1 with an objective of $79,500, little over 1 per cent of the national target. B.C. division has set a goal of $712,200, the third highest in Canada.

LETTERS TO DRIVERS

(In this column the Times presents letters from and to drivers about careless, discourteous or reckless infractions of driving and pedestrian rules. When you see one, just send in the place, date and time, and what happened. DON'T give the number of the offending vehicle. Only initials of complainants will be used.)

TODAY'S BEEFS

On Sunday at 4.40 p.m. I was driving east along Yates when quite an elderly lady with a cane was having a very hard time trying to jay-walk across the street, when a young lad about 18 years old, in a blue 1955 Chevrolet, obviously a hot rod, driving west on Yates, stopped and helped this careless lady across the street. If that well-mannered boy had of been going faster he would of hit that old lady for sure. I think that this young lad deserves honorable mention.

N.D.

About all that can be said in favor of the driver of a Volkswagen panel truck who pulled away suddenly from the curb on North Douglas this morning is that he looked just as well pulled. But he might just as well pulled away blindly, as so many Victoria drivers do. With a cursory glance over his shoulder at oncoming traffic, our truck driver swung out into the stream and forced the nearest car to brake quickly on the slippery road surface. With the usual abandon of the curb-leapers, he obviously felt it was up to the other drivers to make way for him instead of waiting a few more seconds for a break in the traffic.

S.C.

At 3.30 p.m. Sunday, on Helmcken Road on the hill south of the E. & N. underpass, a four or five-year-old child was playing, alone, with a sled. The child was off the shoulder of the road as a car was proceeding up the hill when suddenly the child darted into the roadway. A bit of tricky driving on the icy, bumpy surface was necessary. The moral is: children shouldn't be allowed to play alone near travelled roadways. E.D.M.

Variety of Weekend Accidents Send Nine Persons to Hospital

Nine persons received treatment for injuries in driving, pedestrian and skating mishaps over the icy weekend.

Seven were discharged after hospital emergency treatment for minor injuries. George English, 80, 435 Vancouver, received multiple injuries when he was in collision with a car at Cook and Rockland Sunday at 7 p.m.

His condition at St. Joseph's Hospital is reported as good as he undergoes treatment for shock and leg injuries.

Police said Mr. English was crossing Cook at Rockland when a car driven by Robert Bertrand Anderson, 3226 Doncaster, was in collision with him.

Police took the unconscious pedestrian to hospital.

BROKEN HIP

Another elderly pedestrian, James Braley, 86, 3141 Aldridge, fractured a hip and was admitted to Jubilee Hospital after falling on ice in front of 1586 Lansdowne at 8.50 a.m. today. He was attended by Saanich police.

Two children, Patricia Howard, 10, and her brother John, 7, were treated in St. Joseph's for minor head and mouth cuts when the car in which they were riding, driven by Sean F. Howard, 316 Uplands, was in collision with a car driven by Edward Pearce Shaw, 210 Denison, at Vancouver and Johnson at 9 a.m. today.

FALL ON ICE At 2.40 a.m. today, William John Peary, 72, 820 Metehosin, received an injured right shoulder after falling on ice near the Douglas Building, Superior.

A skating tumble at Dallas Road yacht pond sent Ronnie Gamey, 11, 185 Joseph, to St. Joseph's for treatment to a cut eyelid Sunday at 3.45 p.m.

A Chemainus man, Vincent Elvick, 30, was treated at St. Joseph's at 6.40 p.m. Saturday for abrasions to the leg and forehead after the car in which he was riding was in a minor accident on the Island Highway.

A Mrs. Edith Cooley, 35, no address available, received bruises around the eyes and knees when the car in which she was riding early Saturday was in a collision on the Malahat about 1.30 a.m.

At 7.40 p.m. Saturday, George Dean, 50, 3260 Douglas, was treated for an injured elbow after the car he was driving was in collision with one driven by Thomas Stothard, 2251 Cadboro Bay, at Saanich Road and Thelma at 5 p.m.

Mr. Bailey said he felt there might be some difference in the original certification of the two societies.

"We were careful when we set up to see we were organized as a charitable organization under the Societies Act."

He added the society will contact Ottawa to ensure there had been no change in the non-taxable basis promised in a letter, still on hand, from Ottawa in October, 1952.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—What was the source of the name of Trial Island?

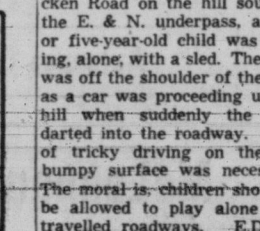

A.—There appears to be no documentary record of the naming of that point. The theories include the suggestion that rounding the island in those waters, so frequently turbulent was such a trial to small craft that the name sprang from that. A different theory is that it grew out of the practice in early days of ships from Esquimalt Harbor using the island as a geographical point to test their engines over a known course.

SHOPPING GUIDE

A Damp Cloth Will Clean Simulated Leather Surfaces

By PENNY SAVER

Every woman needs an overnight case, not too big, not too small, especially for quick little jaunts, maybe to Seattle or Vancouver. Attractive cases of washable simulated leather are being featured in town. I think they'll appeal to you as they did to me. Cream, tan, blues, greens and browns are available in two styles. There is the well-known box-type, with all-around zipper top, and there's a hatbox style, a copy of the models' carry-all. This, too, features the handy zipper closing, and a comfortable soft handle. In both cases is a mirror and fitted pockets. Lots of room for your overnight essentials is another special feature. Both cases are priced at $4.95. A wonderful gift idea for someone.

A children's wear store in town is having a tremendous sale! Everything from little boys' short pants to 'teen-age girls' party dresses are at prices to please you. Coats, hats and gloves are among the featured items, too. Velvet dresses, to wear to a best friend's birthday party or sensible yet very attractive skirts and sweaters for school are all marked down in price. One velvet dress I noticed, regularly priced at $9, was selling at $3.99. This is typical of all the sale prices. How are the sidewalks in front of your house? Still snow-packed? To save yourself and neighbors a nasty fall, you might follow the example of many store owners, and sprinkle some coarse grain salt around. It doesn't really take much effort, and the result is most satisfying. It doesn't mean that you won't be shuffling snow after another snowfall, but it will keep your sidewalks clean and clear, free from ice on these cold, clear days. You can buy this coarse salt at five cents a pound... a small price for prevention!

The other day I mentioned diaries made in Austria. They have hand-embellished covers showing country scenes of children playing, animals, town sites and little flowers scattered hither and yon. To my delight, I found other books, featuring the same type of cover. These, also from Austria, are for addresses, autographs, scraps and pictures. The group make a lovely set, and one that can be shown with pride. The books range from $1.95 to $4.50. The work on them is truly lovely.

TODAY'S RECIPE

OVEN BARBECUED CHICKEN

For six to eight servings use five to six pounds chicken legs, breasts and wings. Dry the pieces to absorb excess moisture. Dip pieces into the Barbecue Sauce to coat thoroughly. Arrange skin side down in greased shallow baking pan. Place pan on low rack in very hot oven (425° F.) 30 minutes. Turn chicken skin side up and baste with additional sauce. Bake 10 minutes. Baste and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer. NOTE: Dilute remaining sauce with a small amount of water, bring to boil and serve with chicken.

BARBECUE SAUCE FOR CHICKEN

Four teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon white pepper, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1 cup white vinegar, ½ cup salad oil, 4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 clove garlic, minced, ½ cup grated onion, ¼ cup water or ¼ cup tomato catsup. Combine ingredients in the order listed. Mix well and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Press through a fine sieve. Makes 2 cups. This is enough sauce for 5 to 6 pounds of cut-up chicken.

Three 'Muses' Complement Paris' Dior

PARIS (AP) — Christian Dior celebrates his 10th anniversary as dictator of Paris fashions with presentation Thursday of his new spring collection.

He has followed success with success, until today the House of Christian Dior represents a flourishing empire of high fashion, with branches in London, New York and other cities.

Behind the shy Frenchman from Normandy stand three women who have contributed almost equally to the Dior success story.

Mme. Raymond Zenacker, known simply as "Madame Raymond," has been described by the designer as "a second me, my exact complement." She is blue-eyed, brown haired, comfortably matronly.

Mme. Mitza Bricard, known in Paris as "Dior's inspiration," sits by the master's elbow when final choices are made, and runs the hat department of the house. She is a slim, chic woman with raven hair swept straight back.

"Dame Couture" is the name Dior has fondly given to his third muse, Mme. Marguerite Carre. She runs the 24 workshops of Dior's Paris establishment with unchallenged authority.

In Dior's pearl grey, neo-Louis XVI salons, these three women sit with Dior to cull the new 1957 spring collection, as the mannequins rehearse for the press opening. Not even the saleswomen are allowed to peek until Thursday.

Dior believes in fortune tellers. He relates that a charity fair palm reader first told him he "would make a great fortune through women," to the horror of his parents who envisaged white slave traffic.

Now 52, Dior has prepared a retirement retreat in Montauroux, in Provence, where he can grow wine grapes.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About a Sympathy Note:

When I write sympathy notes, I always end with the phrase, "in sympathy." My son says that I'm wrong, as it implies that I am a widow. Please put me straight and give me any suggestions.

Louise Davis answers:

Your son has a point, but his theory is a bit far fetched. The friends to whom you write the notes must know that you are not a widow. What you are trying to say in those two words is that you are "in sympathy" with the bereaved family.

However, your notes obviously express your feelings of sympathy, and chances are that you always include your husband in the messages by using his name or the "we." So the use of "in sympathy" is redundant.

In the future, it would be better to precede your signature with "sincerely," "lovingly" or "affectionately."

90-Year-Old Recalls Active Life

Mrs. Wilhelmina Elisabeth Duiven, who was born in Assen, Holland, on January 27, 1867, quietly celebrated her 90th birthday yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Beutelspacher, Chester Street.

As a young bride, Mrs. Duiven travelled with her husband to the Transvaal in South Africa, where he had been sent by the Dutch government to organize postal and telegraphic services.

At the time the only transportation was by ox wagon and mail from home came in only once a month provided rivers were not overflowing. Life was extremely primitive and Mrs. Duiven's first baby was delivered by a native woman, as no doctors were within reach.

Although brought up in the comfortable environment of a well-to-do Dutch family, she took hardship with true pioneer spirit.

His work completed, Mr. Duiven was appointed inspector-general of post and telegraph service and the family settled in Pretoria, taking an active part in community and social life there. After frequent trips to Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Duiven returned to Europe in 1900 with their two sons, when Mr. Duiven was appointed to the South and Mrs. Duiven's first baby was delivered by a native woman, as no doctors were within reach.

Her elder son died in Java, Dutch East India, at the end of the Second World War.

Those on Marathon Have Improved—Want to Join?

Those of you who started in for you and this, plus your diet, will bring you the figure you long for.

Unless there is some reason for not exercising, you will obtain a much prettier result, if you do so. This will not only aid you in a loss of pounds, but if you concentrate on the right exercises, they will speed the loss in inches where you want to lose most. Therefore you will not only lose the extra pounds but will bring your figure into better proportion.

It is a fine idea to pay special attention to skin lubrication during a period of reducing. Even though you may not generally use a body lotion, do so now. Also load the cream and oil onto your face and neck.

I run my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon each January. If you missed it and would like to join to see how much you can improve your appearance and health in eight weeks' time, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Crossed Swords Guard of Honor For Newlyweds Leaving Church

As Regimental Sgt. Maj. WO1 John Gordon Stevens and his bride left St. John's Anglican Church in Truro, N.S., after their wedding Friday evening, warrant officers crossed swords at the doorway to form a guard of honor.

Padre Capt. H. H. Vines officiated at the ceremony which united in marriage Pheobe Maryanne Grandy, daughter of Mr. Arthur Grandy, Truro, N.S., and RMS WO1 Stevens, son of Mrs. John Dugdale, 559 Lampson Street, Victoria.

Daffodils and chrysanthemums were placed on the altar for the ceremony, and guest pewps were marked with white satin bows. Organist, Miss Bertha Dunn, played traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory brocade satin fashioned on princess lines. Long sleeves tapered to lily points at the wrists. Her matching head-dress of satin held a misting shoulderlength veil, and completing her ensemble, the bride carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and white chrysanthemums.

Maid of honor, Miss Grace Brown was the bride's only attendant. She wore a street-length, powder blue brocade taffeta dress with a matching headress. Her colonial bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

The groom had Regimental Beryl Dunn, played traditional wedding music. The bride wore a pastel pink dress with white carnations corsage, and mother of the groom wore a beige dress with pink carnations corsage.

Traveling to San Francisco on honeymoon, the bride wore a brown suit with white and navy accessories and corsage of yellow tea roses.

Upon return to the city, Mr. and Mrs. McLean will live at 1218 Fairfield Road.

Rev. Douglas B. Carr heard the vows of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Taylor, Seattle, Wash., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McLean, Nanaimo, B.C. Organist was Mrs. M. Wilshurst.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Grace Burke, sister of the bride, wore a shrimp-pink ballerina length gown with matching jacket and headress and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Bridesmatron, Mrs. Doreen Salter, wore a ballerina length gown of pale blue with matching jacket and headress and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Best man was Robert McLean, brother of the groom, and usher were Sandy McLean, another brother, and Ernie Taylor, brother of the bride.

Kumtuks Gather At Friendly Reunion Tea

Reminiscences of joint meetings with the Rotary Club of Victoria, of plays presented in the city, entertainments sponsored and maiden speeches given at club gatherings, added a touch of friendly nostalgia to a reunion held last Saturday afternoon in the Blue Room, corner of Broad and Yates.

The occasion marked organization of the Kumtuks Club, first Business and Professional Women's Club in Victoria, in January, 36 years ago.

Miss Lottie Bowron, organizer and first president of the group presided at the head tea table. Special guests were Mrs. Ruby Masters, president of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, which grew out of the Kumtuks group; Miss Elizabeth Forbes, representing National Federation of Business and Professional Women and Mrs. W. L. Fahey.

Letters were read from former members of the Kumtuks unable to be present at the tea, including the Hon. Senator Mrs. Nancy Hodges, now in Ottawa; Miss Margaret Clay, Nanaimo; Mrs. Dorothy Spurr, Salt Spring Island and May McRae, Vancouver.

Among former members attending the tea were Mrs. Nan Shaw and Miss Alma Russell, first secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Kate (McGraw) Farquhar, Mrs. E. (Mustard) Rice, Mrs. D. (Alexander) Rove, Mrs. Margaret (Eastman) Salt, Mrs. Lillian Sweeney, Mrs. V. (Smart) White, Mrs. Dolie Darling, Mrs. Rose Willis, Misses Ethel Bruce, Charlotte Clayton, Jessie Fraser, Clarice Gray, Doris Holmes, Marjorie Holmes, Isabel Kenworthy, Nellie Lugin, Elsie Richardson, Mary Roberts, Tephi Taylor and Margaret Woodcock.

A telephone call was received during the afternoon from Miss Mabel Cameron, who was unable to be present through illness. Others who were not present included Mrs. (Ringland) Bland, Kate Brown, Winnie Ellis, Edith Howell, Beatrice Monks, Mrs. G. (Sunderland) Sullivan, Dorothy White, and Mrs. Betty Willis.

Ontario Plans More Spending, Revenue Boost

TORONTO (CP)—Increased Ontario government spending and steps to obtain more revenue were forecast today in the speech from the throne in the Ontario legislature.

The speech, outlining the government's legislative program for the 1957 session, said the legislature will be asked to vote more money for municipalities, roads, education, health and other projects.

Citing the province's need for additional revenue, it said the federal government's "failure to face up realistically to the changing pattern of provincial and municipal requirements in this great tax-earning province makes our task infinitely more difficult."

As expected, the speech forecast a hospital insurance plan.

"A sound, practical plan has been submitted to the federal government as a basis for a general-provincial agreement. One of the requisites of the plan is an efficient administration which will prevent it from being submerged in unnecessary cost."

The speech gave no details of the plan, which is to be tabled in the legislature Tuesday. However, it said "it is confidently expected that services for the treatment of tuberculosis as well as mental illness will be embodied in the... plan."

The federal offer excluded tuberculosis and mental illness from the national plan.

With fire engines and ambulances standing by, the pilot circled the London airport for 90 minutes and worked to get the undercarriage in position for the emergency landing.

Fire Kills 6; Home-Made Stove Blamed

BATHURST, N.B. (CP)—Flames starting from an overheated home-made stove quickly consumed a small house where 12 persons were sleeping early Sunday and took six lives. The others were injured.

The survivors suffered severe shock and multiple burns. Hospital authorities reported their conditions as fair.

The tar-papered shack, with paper also tacked on the inside walls, had a small attic over the single storey and was only 20 feet square.

The destroyed structure contained a kitchen and two bedrooms with the stove—fashioned from an oil drum and resting lengthwise on a makeshift frame—situated near a bedroom door.

The flames spread too quickly for anyone to save those trapped. The survivors, some leaving bloody prints in the snow, staggered to an unoccupied house 100 yards from the burning home. Neighbors picked them up there and drove them to hospital.

Crown Prince Grounded

LONDON (AP)—A trouble with a nose wheel grounded a stratojet Sunday after it had taken off for New York with Iraq's Crown Prince Abdul Ilah among its 45 passengers. The crown prince is on his way to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower.

With fire engines and ambulances standing by, the pilot circled the London airport for 90 minutes and worked to get the undercarriage in position for the emergency landing.

Policeman Killed, 5 Firemen Hurt In $2 Million Fire

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—A policeman was killed and five firemen were injured as a $2,000,000 fire swept through nearly a whole city block in this racing and health resort Sunday.

Public safety commissioner Harry A. Burke said the entire business district might have been destroyed only for assistance given by 10 fire companies from surrounding towns.

Stamps Name Humbert

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Dick Humbert, coach at the University of Richmond, will assist in coaching Calgary Stampede of the Western Interprovincial Football Union during summer practice starting July 8.

One Douglas, Stampede head coach, confirmed here Sunday that Humbert will be an assistant on his staff for "five or six weeks."

Hoodlums Hit By Heavy Fines At Port Alberni

Accused Treat
Trial as Joke

(Special to the Times)
PORT ALBERNI—Authorities here Saturday lashed out at a swelling wave of hoodlums in this west coast centre by fining five young men $100 each on charges of creating a disturbance.

One of them, Edward Coss, was fined an additional $100 for assault, and a further $25 for damages. His companions were Clayton W. Heider, Louis Bonchard, Lloyd Anderson and Daniel Dockendorf.

Charge arose out of a fracas in a restaurant early Friday morning when, according to reports, the five young men entered the cafe and said "Let's clean this joint out."

They attacked four men who were drinking coffee, and a melee went on until police arrived.

The five treated their courtroom appearance as a joke, and passing of the sentences by Magistrate Thomas Patterson did little to change their manner.

City prosecutor Edward Dinsmore delivered a scathing address against the actions of the young men.

"There has been too much rowdiness in this city," he said. "Hoodlums are making it difficult for peaceable citizens to enter a restaurant late at night without the fear of being hit over the head."

"I am asking for a heavy fine in this case, and if they cannot pay the fine, then a stiff jail sentence. We must uphold the sanctity of our courts. We cannot have people like this. We are not here to be treated as a joke, nor to be laughed at."

Dominion Bridge Opens Warehouse

NANAIMO—Dominion Bridge Company Ltd. has opened a steel warehouse and sales office here at 265 Fry Street to handle supplies of steel plate, structural material, sheets, bars and bar shapes, shafting, and welding rod.

This is the first branch office of the company's Pacific division, which has its headquarters in Vancouver, and will provide facilities for immediate shipments to all points on Vancouver Island.

Manager of the office and warehouse is Byron Milne, formerly of the company's warehouse department in Vancouver.

Committee Named To Manage Fire Finances

SIDNEY—A committee representing both the Sidney village commission and trustees of North Saanich Fire Improvement District has been named to manage finances of Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department.

Dr. C. H. Hemmings and Joseph Bilgeri will represent the village, and fire district trustees on the committee are Cmdr. F. B. Leigh, P. Earnshaw and Jack Gibbs.

W. T. Overstall Dies; Veteran Optometrist

William Thomas Overstall, 87, city optometrist from 1923 until his retirement seven years ago, died Sunday in hospital.

Born in London, England, he studied in London, and in 1898 passed one of the first optometry exams ever given. The top four students, of whom he was one, were made freemen of the city.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. at McCall's, and interment will be in the family plot, Ross Bay cemetery.

Flaming Globemaster Ditched; 13 Escape

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Thirteen crew members were rescued after a C-124 Globemaster caught fire and was ditched in Cook Inlet near here Sunday night.

All but one walked from the rescue craft, the air force reported.

The shortage of space is particularly acute in the children's ward, he noted. Friday night when four children were brought to the hospital following a highway smash at Ladysmith, it was necessary to put two of the children in the same bed and accommodate an infant in a clothes basket.

"Even at that we had to send some children home in order to be able to take care of the accident cases," the doctor added.

"Need for a new hospital for Nanaimo is more pressing than ever and it is particularly disturbing when we find our hospital accommodation strained to the breaking point to take care of four children in urgent need of immediate medical attention."

Indian Jailed For Robbery At Tofino P.O.

TOFINO—Austin Williams, Indian of the Opitsat reserve, was found guilty Saturday afternoon of breaking and entering and stealing approximately $300 from Tofino post office.

He was sentenced by Magistrate J. F. Webb of Ucluelet to two years less one day in Oakalla. Most of the $300 was recovered.

The theft took place Thursday night, when entry was gained by prying open one of the post office windows. The accused, who was arrested Saturday morning by RCMP Const. Harry Bonner, had been released from Oakalla recently.

Tax-Hater Poujade Fails in By-Election

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Poujade, whose tax rebellion mushroomed into a political movement, lost his first bid for a public office Sunday in a Left Bank Paris parliamentary election.

Complete returns from a by-election for a National Assembly seat gave Poujade 19,906 votes out of a total of 319,901 cast—or 6.4 per cent.

Industrial Taxes for Schools, Hospitals Plan of Ratepayers

Mr. Justice Wood, 75, Dies After Seizure

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice H. S. Wood, who retired from the British Columbia Supreme Court in December, died Saturday night here. He was 75.

A Supreme Court judge since 1947, Mr. Justice Wood retired at the end of 1956 because of ill health. He suffered a stroke three days before his death.

The judge was an honorary vice-president of the Boys' Clubs of Canada and was prominent in youth work.

Born in Peterborough, Ont., he graduated from Queen's University in 1905 and was Crown prosecutor in Peterborough between 1916 and 1928. As a student, he was a member of Toronto Argonauts Rowing Club.

From 1922 to 1934 he was also a special narcotics prosecutor in Ottawa. He then moved to B.C., where he became a juvenile and later police court judge at Vancouver.

Survivors include two sons, A. R. Wood, New Westminster, and P. R. Wood, Vancouver; and a brother, Dr. E. H. Wood, Ottawa.

Chemainus Gun Club Sets March 9 Banquet

CHEMAINUS—The Rod and Gun Club will hold its annual banquet in the Legion Hall Saturday, March 9, when supper will be followed by presentation of trophies and awards, entertainment, and dancing.

The club has purchased a six-horsepower outboard motor as part of the first prize for the annual salmon derby. Derby committee now is making plans to purchase a suitable boat. Boat and motor will be first prize in the contest.

IN OFFICIAL WAR HISTORY

Sharp Criticism Levelled At Dieppe Raid Planning

(From BUP and CP Dispatches)

LONDON—Severe criticism of the planning of the ill-fated Dieppe Raid of Aug. 18, 1942, in which hundreds of Canadians were killed, was contained today in an official history of Second World War.

The book, the second volume of "The War at Sea (1939-1945)", by Capt. S. W. Roskill, DSC, RN, said the plan to attack Dieppe had three serious defects:

1. "The excessive reliance placed on surprise, in conditions where complete surprise was unlikely to be achieved."
2. "The weight and strength of supporting fire—both close and distant—was not adequate to deal with defence of such power and density."
3. "The plan was extremely complicated, and military planning was overly rigid."

Roskill noted that this latter fault was usually attributed to the Germans. He said the Germans were surprised the Allies didn't use air-borne forces to knock out key points ashore, and that operational orders were so rigid in their details.

"There is a certain irony in this German criticism of British inflexibility in planning; for we are inclined to consider such faults essentially Teutonic," said Roskill.

Of the 4,961 Canadians taking part, 3,363 (nearly 70 per cent) were casualties. Thirty-three landing craft and one destroyer were lost. One hundred and six planes were destroyed. Not a single tank put ashore was recovered.

Roskill said the Dieppe raid had been planned, among other reasons, to give active employment for the newly-arrived Canadian troops, "these fine but as yet untried soldiers."

Planning began in April, four months before the operation, under the general command of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, then chief of combined operations.

It was decided not to bomb Dieppe before the raid on the grounds that bombing might only alert the Germans, as was suspected during the St. Nazaire raid, of the impending attack.

Roskill commented: "Later experience leads one to believe that these arguments against air bombardment were not altogether sound; and their acceptance may well have contributed to the failure of the raid."

He also regretted that a battleship had not been present, and quotes the naval force commander as saying that it probably would have turned the tide in the Allies' favor.

The English and Canadian troops, with a handful of U.S. Rangers, sailed from English south coast ports on the night of August 18-19.

ACCIDENTAL

The Canadians were drawn from the South Saskatchewan Regiment, the Royal Regiment of Canada, the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the Canadian Essex-Scottish. The Englishmen were commandos.

The first blow against the Allies' chances was accidental—at 3:47 a.m. one of the invaders bumped into a German convoy, which gave the alarm.

Taking part in this affray and ensuing fighting was the Royal Regiment of Canada, which suffered terrible losses; all but three of the 29 officers taking part and 459 of the 516 men were killed, wounded or missing.

The South Saskatchewan Regiment and the Cameron Highlanders of Canada landed more successfully and went on to capture some of their objectives.

Then tragedy struck them. They were outflanked by the Germans, and when landing craft came in to pick them up later in the morning, the Canadians were picked off by heavy German fire from the shore.

On August 20 Lord Mountbatten went before the war cabinet and stressed the value that the lessons learned at Dieppe would have in planning the invasion of Europe.

Roskill concluded: "Though the price paid there had been heavy, the recommendations made in the combined report were all put into effect by the time the great landings of later days took place."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our heavenly Father, this day forgive us our debts even as we forgive our debtors. Forgive our small and deadly tongues, their words of anger and unkindness. Forgive our unbelieving hearts and lack of trust in the promise of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Senators Gun for Dulles On Mid-East Policies

Bank Bandit Attempted Restitution

Leonard Wilson, 29, Duncan and Vancouver construction worker and wrestler, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary when he appeared in city court today on a charge of armed robbery of a Victoria bank Jan. 3.

He pleaded guilty to the charge previously and was remanded for sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Appearing for him was lawyer James Proudfoot, who said: "All I can say, Your Honor, is that it was a crime committed on impulse and one in which a gun was not used."

Wilson was picked up by Seattle police after a tip from a TCA booking agent at Patricia Bay indicated the suspect had boarded a plane for the Washington city a few hours after the hold-up.

Wilson had nothing to say to the court.

He was attempting to repay all of the money obtained from the Douglas and Cormorant branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. Some $800 of the total $1,500 was recovered in his possession.

GANGLAND VENGEANCE LINKED TO B.C. CAR BLAST

VANCOUVER (CP)—A car belonging to businessman Peter Hamilton was wrecked by an explosion outside his Wellington Street home here Sunday night.

Hamilton said today he believes the person who blew it up is one whom he "turned in" for a crime 12 years ago.

He told police the man threatened he would "get" him, his mother and a detective who worked on the case.

The blast ripped off the lid of the trunk and flung it about 30 feet, tore a hole through the floor and scattered heavy tools stored inside the trunk.

A window in the Hamilton home was shattered and people throughout the neighborhood were startled by the sharp report. No one was injured.

More Warm Air 'Around Corner'

Warmer weather arrived in Victoria today on schedule, and more is "just around the corner," according to weatherman William Mackie.

The official thermometer at Gonzales Observatory rose above freezing point today for the first time since last Tuesday, and Mr. Mackie expected it to near 40 degrees during the warmest part of the day.

He predicted a minimum temperature of 27 degrees tonight, considerably warmer than the 17 degrees of last week, and a maximum Tuesday of 38 degrees. There will be increasing cloudiness tonight, and cloudy skies Tuesday, with northerly winds up to 15 miles per hour.

Victorians made the most of the novelty of crisp, cold weather by flocking to outdoor skating surfaces by the hundreds Sunday afternoon.

One of the largest crowds was at Elk Lake, where observers said there were at least 400 skaters on the ice.

The Langford Lake crowd was described as "dozens." Lake residents had put wooden

Liquor Tax Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian makers of whisky, rum and gin appealed to Finance Minister Harris today for $20,000,000 worth of tax reductions, maintaining that the distilling industry is the most heavily taxed in the country.

Cabinet OK Speeds Start on Somass Power

Construction of the $10,000,000 first stage of a projected three-part development by the B.C. Power Commission on the Somass River system of Central Vancouver Island is expected to get underway this spring, following cabinet approval today.

The cabinet authorized the commission to proceed with construction of a dam on the Ash River and 35,000-horsepower plant at Great Central Lake.

The new power is scheduled to be flowing into the Vancouver Island system by the fall of 1958.

Plans have been drawn up by the commission for dams on the Ash, Sproat and Stamp Rivers, but development of the last two streams is being held up by a fish problem.

Democrats Demand Resignation For 'Mishandling'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democrats were demanding today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign for what they termed his mishandling of the Middle East problem.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (Pennsylvania Democrat) made an outright request that Dulles give up his post on grounds that he has "lost the confidence of our Allies" and Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minnesota Democrat) and Sen. J. William Fulbright (Arkansas Democrat), both members of the powerful Senate foreign relations committee, hinted indirectly that they also want Dulles to quit.

Senator Humphrey said in an interview that Congress is showing a "growing lack of confidence" in Dulles, and he added:

SAME AS EDEN

"There is a feeling that Mr. Dulles may well be a casualty of the cold war, just as Mr. Eden was."

He referred to Sir Anthony Eden, who resigned as British prime minister in the wake of the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt.

At the same time, Senator Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, said the "organized attack" on Dulles is coming from some Democrats with presidential ambitions.

"There seem to be several of these horsemen riding their presidential ambitions hard," he said in an interview.

He did not name them.

DIRECT FIRE AT DULLES

Wiley, top Republican on the Senate foreign relations committee, said he has no doubt the Democrats "have had their meetings and they have divided up the field of attack" on Dulles.

"They have come to the conclusion they could not attack President Eisenhower after his landslide victory in November and so they are directing their fire on Mr. Dulles," Wiley said, adding:

"You would think from listening to some of them that Dulles started all of the trouble in the Middle East. I don't think they are getting to first base with their attacks."

Dulles went back before the combined Senate foreign relations and armed services committees today for more questioning—this time in secret—on the "Eisenhower doctrine" for protecting the Middle East from Communism.

He was subjected to a blistering Democratic attack on his handling of the Middle East situation during four days of public testimony last week.

The administration turned on the pressure to prevent a foreign policy inquiry proposed by Sen. Fulbright. Senators were being told that such a review might cause a new breach in U.S. relations with Britain and France when it touched on those nations' Suez attack and U.S. opposition to it.

Spy Ring Tip-Off Came From Canada

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Tip-off in the recent crack-down in New York on another alleged Russian spy ring originated with Canadian anti-espionage operators, according to informed sources here.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police and other security authorities in Canada are believed to have had under observation two of the three persons taken into custody Saturday by the FBI.

The RCMP was conducting investigations in Montreal and passed along information to the FBI.

Two of the three persons taken into custody were Jack Sobel, 53, and his wife Myra. Both lived in Montreal for a short period before going to the U.S.

A senior RCMP official said the RCMP had been "co-operating" with the FBI in the case.

Hon. Stuart Garson, minister of justice, is expected to make a statement on the case in the Commons Tuesday.

Prince Goes 'Outside' For Classes

LONDON (CP)—Prince Charles, sturdy eight-year-old heir to the British Throne, went to school today for the first time.

This morning at an exclusive London preparatory school was the first time he has attended classes outside the private school room in Buckingham Palace.

May of his new classmates were already known to the prince. He met them in November when he played soccer with them on the school playing field.

For the present, Prince Charles will attend morning classes at the school five days a week.

HELD IN GIRL KILLINGS

Illiterate skid row dishwasher, Bennie Bedwell, 21 (left), today confessed killing the teenaged Grimes sisters of Chicago because they refused his advances, police said. But the man he named as an accomplice, William C. Willingham Jr., 26, of Richmond, Va. (right), denied any part in the crime. Bedwell said he killed the girls after making the rounds of skid row bars with them. Willingham denied knowing the Grimes girls, but said he had been with Bedwell on dates with two Indian girls. scrapers on power mowers to clear two ice hockey rinks, and two boys with bicycles made themselves popular by towing girls on skates.

One motorcyclist towed a skier over the ice, according to J. C. Nimmo, Leigh Road, and two hockey games were in session at all times.

Mrs. L. L. Lofell of Swan Lake Road, reported Swan Lake was "like an ant hill Sunday afternoon." She said there were four motorcyclists on the lake towing skaters, and five hockey games.

"There must have been at least 300 on the ice," she said.

ALL CROWDED

The crowd at Panama Flats was into the hundreds, and at least 200 skated on Goodacre Lake in Beacon Hill Park. Prospect Lake was reported "crowded," and even Portage Inlet had a few dozen skaters.

Skiers crowded slopes in the vicinity of Rithet Hill reservoir, and a slope on Victoria Golf Club course on Oak Bay attracted children and adults on skis, sleds and toboggans.

Elsewhere the cold was a hardship rather than a source of sport and pastime. Sooke Harbor was without water Friday night while a Greater Victoria Water District crew cleared the intake and thawed the main leading to the village.

Sassexes did without water from Friday to Sunday, and the district was ready to serve the 130 customers with tank trucks when the service finally was restored Sunday morning.

PLANT CLOSED

In Port Alberni, where temperatures have hovered from three degrees above zero to three below, MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. announced the plywood plant employing 800 persons would remain closed until the weather moderated.

Jack Moore, financial secretary of IWA Local 183, explained to members that in extremely cold weather sawwood freezes, making it impossible to get good plywood in the peeling stage.

Island roads were described today as "fair, and sanded where necessary," with the exception of the Malahat, where some construction is going on between Mile 11 and Mile 23.

UN

spurred similar suggestions in the past.

Foreign Minister Mohamed Mahgoub of Sudan, chosen by the Arab-Asian group to present its views at the start of the assembly's latest round of the Middle East debate, charged that Israel threatened to touch off the third world war.

"I appeal to all... to condemn Israel and to withhold any assistance—financial, economic or military," Mahgoub said. "If Israel alone stands to defy and disregard the UN, it deserves nothing but condemnation, with the severest penalties."

"Apparently, the thirst of Israel for blood, and the pleasure it takes in human misery, has not yet been satisfied. Israel now dauntlessly strives to threaten the world peace."

Neither Israel nor Egypt chose to speak at the start of the debate on last Friday's report by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, which rejected Israel's right to hold the Gaza and Gulf of Aqaba areas its forces overran in last year's brief Suez war.

The major powers, several of whom were considering resolutions on the situation, also were content to wait until later to put their views before the Assembly. Today's preliminary speakers' list included only Sudan, Ceylon, Jordan, the Philippines, Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

Canada, the United States and several other countries were working on a resolution to put into effect the proposals made by Hammarskjöld in his report to the Assembly Friday.

The secretary-general urged Israel's early withdrawal from the last areas Israeli troops still hold three months after their invasion of Egypt—the disputed Gaza Strip on the Mediterranean and the south coast of Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, where Egyptian guns had barred Israeli shipping from the Gulf of Aqaba.

WIRE BRIEFS

Missile Wrecked

WASHINGTON (AP)—An air force attempt to launch a test version of its Thor ballistic missile was reported Sunday to have ended in failure, with the multi-ton rocket in wreckage. The incident occurred at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., the missile test centre used by all the armed forces and from which weapons are fired out over the Atlantic in a southwesterly direction.

The usual tight secrecy concerning all missile tests was thrown around the Thor launching attempt.

Attlee Back Home

GREAT MISSENDEN, Eng. (Reuters)—Earl Attlee, just returned from a lecture tour of North America, said Sunday night the cancellation of one of his lectures in Toronto was due to "bad organization." The former Labor prime minister denied press reports that his lecture tour was a failure and said there was great enthusiasm everywhere.

U.K. Tories Predict Tax Relief in Budget

By FRASER WIGHTON
LONDON (Reuters)—Conservative politicians are predicting that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will surprise Britain with an April financial budget designed to lift some of the gloom caused by the Middle East crisis.

They say defence cuts planned by Britain, and now being discussed by Defence Minister Duncan Sandys in Washington, are only part of a Macmillan economy drive in practically every government department.

This campaign, they add, will be balanced in the budget by incentives to greater production and export.

BIG THREE CONFERENCE

'Brass Tacks' Policy Suggested for Ike

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some state department officials would like to see President Eisenhower return to "brass tacks" negotiations when he meets the leaders of Britain and France here in the spring.

They would prefer that he use less of the personality approach by which he seeks to bring about better understanding without trying necessarily to solve any specific problems. There is some fear that an Allied summit conference could do more harm than good unless it is prepared for with great care and conducted according to a well-considered plan.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French Premier Guy Mollet are expected to come here within the next three or four months. Some officials say it could be as early as March. Eisenhower has used many times an informal approach to international meetings—from his conference with British and French leaders in Bermuda in December, 1953, to his talks last month with India's Prime Minister Nehru. That seems to be the spirit of his approach also to his week's meeting with King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Officials emphasizing a need for careful advance planning for a Big Three conference cite the possibility that a minor misunderstanding or chance comment could produce popular anger or resentment.

$3,000 Robbery At Chemainus

Theft of about $3,000 in cash and cheques in a 1,200-pound motel safe was reported by RCMP today as a result of a Saturday night break-in at Chemainus.

The safe was stolen from Horse-shoe Bay Inn sometime Saturday night, and all cheques, totalling $1,000, were stamped with the name of the hotel.

Remainder of the money, about $2,000, was in varying denominations of currency.

Dress Strap Snaps; Repair Kitt Needed

LONDON (AP)—American singer Eartha Kitt scored a great hit on a British commercial television's big Sunday night program—her shoulder strap snapped.

The slim little strap, which provided 50 per cent of the staying power for her skin-tight gown, called it quits shortly after the visiting singer began her song, "Momenous."

Millions of TV viewers found the incident anything but that as Miss Kitt grabbed the dangling strap, gave an upward jerk and held on firmly for two tense minutes until she finished her song.

She said later she felt the strap go even before the studio audience gasped:

"It was a terrible moment," she said. "I felt like an idiot."

Massey Inspects Stratford Theatre

STRATFORD (CP)—Governor-General Vincent Massey Saturday laid the foundation stone of a $1,500,000 circular theatre and paid tribute to the Stratford Shakespearean Festival as "a national achievement, an incredible success."

The new theatre, on the banks of Western Ontario's Avon River, will replace a giant tent

in which some 200,000 persons from many parts of the world have attended 182 performances of Shakespearean plays since the festival was started three years ago.

The governor-general made a tour around the top of the walls of the half-completed theatre, led by Lee Racine of Edmonton, construction superintendent for Foundation Company of Canada. The firm is building the theatre for $1 profit.

The new theatre is scheduled to be completed in May for the start of the summer season. About $750,000 of its cost has been raised so far by public subscription.

ONLY MAN in the Ice Capades to appear on the ice without skates, Esco Larue, the uncomplaining comic above, is also the man who gets the biggest boffs. Pretty blonde is Patty Cox, and coaxing her to his own level is Brian Power. The ice show opens in Memorial Arena Tuesday.

Comic-Juggler Team Returns With Ice Show

Two of the favorites of previous ice shows which played this city, Esco and Trixie Larue will return with Ice Capades which opens in Memorial Arena Tuesday, for a five-day run.

The comic Esco, who pops into the show from the audience, usually as a wandering drunk, and Trixie, the tiny blond juggler, did not come here last year due to an earlier engagement—the arrival of their second child.

But in 1955, Esco and Trixie not only thrilled arena audiences, they took time to visit children in Queen Alexandra Solum. They are probably the only two in the show who can perform as well without their skates, and they were themselves out making smiles on the faces of the young patients.

Trixie's act is one of the highlights of some 20 starring acts in this year's show. Other stars enjoyed here before include Alja Zarova, a world champion; Silvia and Michel, European champs, and a U.S. Olympic star skater, Jogn Lettengarver.

Story feature of this year's Capades is James M. Barrie's Peter Pan.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Five-year-old Peter John Murray died today of a bullet wound suffered Sunday as he watched an adventure film in a crowded theatre.

Police said the bullet came from a stolen .22-calibre pistol, fired, apparently by accident, by a 14-year-old boy playing with the weapon several rows behind the victim.

Police said four guns and some ammunition were stolen during the weekend from a local sporting goods store. They arrested three teen-agers several hours after the shooting and charged them in connection with the theft.

MARKET SUMMARIES

4th Straight Dip Seen at Toronto

The fourth straight decline to sift through the Toronto stock market worsened today in light trading.

Industrials led the setback, closely followed by western oils. Base metals managed to mark time and held the level set during early trading.

The slow market decline deepened in late trading today on the New York market. Leading issues lost from fractions to around two points. A few small gains remained among pivotal stocks.

AT TORONTO Central Leduc led the index losers among western oils, dropping 40 cents in active trade. Del Rio, Canada Southern and Canadian Prospects were down 25 cents. Liberal Petroleum added 20 cents and Canadian Export Gas 45 cents in light trading.

AT NEW YORK U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were each off a full point or more as their annual earnings were anticipated this week. Republic Steel and Youngstown were off around a point.

Rising Canadian stocks included Hudson Bay Mining, ahead one, Dome Mines and Walker-Gooderham, up 1/4 each. Dropping off were Distillers Seagrams, down 1/4, Aluminum Ltd., International Nickel 1/4, McIntyre 1/4, Canadian Pacific 1/4 and Granby Mining 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, leading Canadian stocks included Canadian Traction and Canadian Marconi, ahead 1/4, and Scurry-Rainbow Oil, up 1/4. Down were Shawinigan, off one, Preston East Dome 1/4, Eureka, Jupiter Oils and Molymden, down 1/4.

AT MONTREAL industrial price changes were mostly fractional today as the stock exchange became mixed in moderate trading.

AT LONDON gilt-edged securities took a firm lead on the stock market today on lower money rates.

Business was selective, however, and gains in spots were reduced by profit-taking and some issues were lower on balance.

Fish showed gains to 1/4. In foreign bonds, Japanese issues improved.

Domestic and colonial issues were steady to firm. Industries appeared irregular. British-American Tobacco was firm. The increase in freight rates helped shipping shares.

Mining stocks were generally dull although declines were small. Oils were depressed under the lead of British petroleum. Dollar stocks reflected Friday's lower Wall Street trend.

AT VANCOUVER mines were active with prices slightly lower. Cowichan Copper sold 6,000 between $1.55 and $1.65. Pacific Nickel moved 16,200 at $7.

De Havilland Profits Highest Yet in 1956

TORONTO (CP)—De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Saturday reported its net profits of $1,999,153 for the year ended Sept. 30, 1956, were the highest in the company's history.

The conference has invited an imposing array of speakers. One of these is Joseph L. Fisher, associate director of Resources for the Future Corporation, Washington, D.C., who will speak on "Resources and People—Today and Tomorrow," at the conference's banquet on Feb. 21.

Mr. Fisher is a leading authority on natural resources in the United States.

The corporation in which he serves as secretary was founded in 1952 for the purpose of promoting conservation in the United States through programs of research and education.

Other speakers will include General Sir Overy L. Roberts, president of Grosvenor-Laine Ltd., Vancouver, who will speak on "Annals—a planned industrial estate."

Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of B.C., will speak on "The Future of Higher Education in B.C."

showed hesitation in a dull session of trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, which was affected by a decline in United States grain markets.

Oats and barley trade was of a domestic nature with shipping orders for feed creating the best commercial demand. Prices were easier. United States selling in oats was noted.

The Revelstoke Ski Club announced today that an invitation sent to the Oslo Ski Club for five Norwegian jumpers has been accepted.

Nicosia Workers Back on Jobs

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Shops reopened and workers went back to their jobs today after a week of violence and street stoppages caused by ill-feeling between Turkish and Greek Cypriots.

The communal strife began Jan. 20 when bands of young Turks burned Greek-owned buildings in retaliation for the death of a Turkish auxiliary policeman in an EOKA bombing.

No N.Y. Welcome for King Saud

The mayor also has banned any city welcome if Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia should ever visit New York.

Spy Ring Tip-Off Came From Canada

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Tip-off in the recent crack-down in New York on another alleged Russian spy ring originated with Canadian anti-espionage operators, according to informed sources here.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police and other security authorities in Canada are believed to have had under observation two of the three persons taken into custody Saturday by the FBI.

The RCMP was conducting investigations in Montreal and passed along information to the FBI.

Two of the three persons taken into custody were Jack Sobel, 53, and his wife Myra. Both lived in Montreal for a short period before going to the U.S.

A senior RCMP official said the RCMP had been "co-operating" with the FBI in the case.

Hon. Stuart Garson, minister of justice, is expected to make a statement on the case in the Commons Tuesday.

Somass Project Is Set

Construction of the $10,000,000 first stage of a projected three-part development by the B.C. Power Commission on the Somass River system of Central Vancouver Island is expected to get under way this spring, following cabinet approval today.

The cabinet authorized the commission to proceed with construction of a dam on the Ash River and 35,000-horsepower plant at Great Central Lake.

The new power is scheduled to be flowing into the Vancouver Island system by the fall of 1958.

Plans have been drawn up by the commission for dams on the Ash, Sprout and Stamp Rivers, but development of the last two streams is being held up by a fish problem.

Discussions now are under way with federal fisheries officials on means of getting around the problem. Total power generated by the three projects would be 87,000 horsepower.

They are both salmon-spawning rivers but the Ash is not, a commission spokesman said.

In the Ash River project, Elsie Lake will be used as the storage reservoir. The lake will be raised some 50 feet and the shores will have to be cleared. There is no habitation around the lake.

A five-mile tunnel will be driven from the storage dam on Elsie Lake to the power house at Great Central, from where 27 miles of transmission line will be installed to tie in with the commission system at Alberni.

FIRE HITS CITY BOWLING ALLEYS

blamed for starting blaze. Thick oily smoke left tarry deposit on everything. Combustion blew out doors at rear of building. Owners say bowling will continue on top floor later today. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

More Warm Air 'Around Corner'

Warmer weather arrived in Victoria today on schedule, and more is "just around the corner," according to weatherman William Mackie.

The official thermometer at Gonzales Observatory rose above freezing point today for the first time since last Tuesday, and Mr. Mackie expected it to near 40 degrees during the warmest part of the day.

He predicted a minimum temperature of 27 degrees tonight, considerably warmer than the 17 degrees of last week, and a maximum Tuesday of 38 degrees. There will be increasing cloudiness tonight, and cloudy skies Tuesday, with northerly winds up to 15 miles per hour.

Victorians made the most of the novelty of crisp, cold weather by flocking to outdoor skating surfaces by the hundreds Sunday-afternoon.

One of the largest crowds was at Elk Lake, where observers said there were at least 400 skaters on the ice.

Robbery Admitted By Youths

Two 17-year-old Victoria boys, Robert Edward March and Robert Edward Smart, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today to armed robbery of a Gladstone street confectionery, Jan. 23.

They were transferred to police court from juvenile court, Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded them for sentence to Feb. 4.

Juvenile officer Lyle Sommers told the court the boys held up Esther Levi, 1308 Gladstone, and robbed her of $8, using a .32 calibre automatic pistol. They wore red handkerchiefs over their faces, but the proprietress ripped the cloth from one to be able to identify him later.

The boys were picked up by police and the weapon was found in their room at a local hotel. It was fully loaded, Const. Sommers said.

Tried Restitution To Mitigate Crime

Leonard Wilson, the man who said he robbed a Victoria bank "on impulse" was sentenced in city police court this morning to a penitentiary term of five years.

Despite an attempt to make full restitution he was still short $400 of the $1,340 he had stolen. In a five-minute courtroom appearance he lost five years of freedom. But he neither flinched nor spoke.

Former wrestler and construction worker in Duncan and Vancouver, the 29-year-old Wilson pleaded guilty earlier to armed robbery of the Douglas Street branch of the Royal Bank.

He had done it on an impulse he said. He walked from his hotel room to the bank, passed a note to a teller and walked out with nearly $1,400. He had no gun he said.

Wilson was arrested in Seattle and after his arrest had made attempt to repay the bank the money he had stolen. Some $800 was on his person when he was arrested.

$400 Short of Full Repayment

He raised a little of the balance but was still $400 short of full repayment when the date for sentencing came up. He had been balked in an attempt to sell his car—there was so much owing on it.

He stepped into the prisoner's box today and faced the magistrate.

His appearance wasn't as natty as his last time in court. He needed a shave, the green sport shirt worn under his grey suit was open at the neck.

He stood erect but rested his hands on the rail of the box.

Defence lawyer James Proudfoot addressed the court:

"All I can say, Your Honor, is that it was a crime committed on impulse and one in which a gun was not used."

"I sentence you to five years in the penitentiary," said Magistrate Hall to the prisoner.

Wilson stepped back into the jail. He will be taken, probably by RCMP aircraft, to Vancouver and driven to the federal jail at New Westminster.

Wilson might still be a free man were it not for a sharp-eyed TCA agent at Patricia Bay airport. He grew suspicious of Wilson and a girl companion as they arrived in a taxi to catch a Seattle plane.

Seattle police were alerted and kept the pair under surveillance until Victoria detectives arrived to make the arrest.

Senators Demand Dulles Quit Job

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democrats were demanding today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles resign for what they termed his mishandling of the Middle East problem.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (Pennsylvania Democrat) made an outright request that Dulles give up his post on grounds that he has "lost the confidence of our Allies" and Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minnesota Democrat) and Sen. J. William Fulbright (Arkansas Democrat), both members of the powerful Senate foreign relations committee, hinted indirectly that they also want Dulles to quit.

Senator Humphrey said in an interview that Congress is showing a "growing lack of confidence" in Dulles, and he added:

"There is a feeling that Mr. Dulles may well be a casualty of the cold war, just as Mr. Eden was."

He referred to Sir Anthony Eden, who resigned as British prime minister in the wake of the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt.

At the same time, Senator Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, said the "organized attack" on Dulles is coming from some Democrats with presidential ambitions.

"There seem to be several of these horsemen riding their

HELD IN GIRL KILLINGS

Illiterate skid row dishwasher, Bennie Bedwell, 21 (left), today confessed killing the 'teenaged Grimes sisters of Chicago because they refused his advances, police said. But the man he named as an accomplice, William C. Willingham Jr., 26, of Richmond, Va. (right), denied any part in the crime. Bedwell said he killed the girls after making the rounds of skid row bars with them. Willingham denied knowing the Grimes girls, but said he had been with Bedwell on dates with two Indian girls. scrapers on power mowers to clear two ice hockey rinks, and two boys with bicycles made themselves popular by towing girls on skates.

One motorcyclist towed a skier over the ice, according to J. C. Nimmo, Leigh Road, and two hockey games were in session at all times.

Mrs. L. L. Lohselt of Swan Lake Road, reported that Swan Lake was "like an ant hill Sunday afternoon." She said there were four motorcycles on the lake towing skaters, and five hockey games.

"There must have been at least 300 on the ice," she said.

ALL CROWDED

The crowd at Panama Flats was into the hundreds, and at least 200 skated on Goodacre Lake in Beacon Hill Park. Prospect Lake was reported "crowded," and even Portage Inlet had a few dozen skaters.

Skiers crowded slopes in the vicinity of Rithet Hill reservoir, and a slope on Victoria Golf Club course on Oak Bay attracted children and adults on skis, sleds and toboggans.

Elsewhere the cold was a hardship rather than a source of sport and pastime. Sooke Harbor was without water Friday night while a Greater Victoria Water District crew cleared the intake and thawed the main leading to the village.

Sassex did without water from Friday to Sunday, and the district was ready to serve the 130 customers with tank trucks when the service finally was restored Sunday morning.

In Port Alberni where temperatures have hovered from three degrees above, zero to three below, MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. announced the plywood plant employing 800 persons would remain closed until the weather moderates.

Jack Moore, financial secretary of IWA Local 185, explained to members that in extremely cold weather sapwood freezes, making it impossible to get good plywood in the peeling stage.

Island roads were described today as "fair, and sanded where necessary," with the exception of the Malahat, where some construction is going on between Mile 11 and Mile 23.

spurred similar suggestions in the past.

Foreign Minister Mohamed Mahgoub of Sudan, chosen by the Arab-Asian group to present its views at the start of the assembly's latest round of the Middle East debate, charged that Israel threatened to touch off the third world war.

"I appeal to all . . . to condemn Israel and to withhold any assistance — financial, economic or military," Mahgoub said. "If Israel alone stands to defy and disregard the UN, it deserves nothing but condemnation, with the severest penalties."

"Apparently, the thirst of Israel for blood, and the pleasure it takes in human misery, has not yet been satisfied. Israel now dauntlessly strives to threaten the world peace."

Neither Israel nor Egypt chose to speak at the start of the debate on last Friday's report by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, which rejected Israel's right to hold the Gaza and Gulf of Aqaba areas its forces overran in last year's brief Suez war.

The major powers, several of whom were considering resolutions on the situation, also were content to wait until later to put their views before the Assembly. Today's preliminary speakers' list included only Sudan, Ceylon, Jordan, the Philippines, Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

Canada, the United States and several other countries were working on a resolution to put into effect the proposals made by Hammarskjöld in his report to the Assembly Friday.

The secretary-general urged Israel's early withdrawal from the last areas Israeli troops still hold three months after their invasion of Egypt—the disputed Gaza Strip on the Mediterranean and the south coast of Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, where Egyptian guns had barred Israeli shipping from the Gulf of Aqaba.

Missile Wrecked

WASHINGTON (AP) — An air force attempt to launch a test version of its Thor ballistic missile was reported Sunday to have ended in failure, with the multi-ton rocket in wreckage. The incident occurred at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., the missile test centre used by all the armed forces and from which weapons are fired out over the Atlantic in a southwesterly direction.

The usual tight secrecy concerning all missile tests was thrown around the Thor launching attempt.

Attlee Back Home

GREAT MISSENDEN, Eng. (Reuters) — Earl Attlee, just returned from a lecture tour of North America, said Sunday night the cancellation of one of his lectures in Toronto was due to "bad organization." The former Labor prime minister denied press reports that his lecture tour was a failure, and said there was great enthusiasm everywhere.

U.K. Tories Predict Tax Relief in Budget

By FRASER WIGHTON
LONDON (Reuters) — Conservative politicians are predicting that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will surprise Britain with an April financial budget designed to lift some of the gloom caused by the Middle East crisis.

They say defence cuts planned by Britain, and now being discussed by Defence Minister Duncan Sandys in Washington, are only part of a Macmillan economy drive in practically every government department.

This campaign, they add, will be balanced in the budget by incentives to greater production and export.

Some predict the new prime minister will stimulate the national morale by concessions—including some in taxation—that will encourage the working-population to new output achievements.

One of the government's major plans, now under cabinet discussion, is for a big expansion of the present £300,000,000 project to develop electric power for atomic energy.

A start is being made on a chain of 12 atomic power stations, all due to be in operation by 1965.

But the government intends to improve considerably on this program and to step up efforts to maintain the world lead in exploiting peaceful uses of nuclear power.

WRENTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Even a long-term prisoner in state prison can get a traffic ticket.

Joseph E. Keyes, serving robbery and burglary sentences totalling 40 years, was arraigned on motor vehicle charges of dangerous driving, operating after suspension of his licence and driving a vehicle with defective equipment.

Walpole police said Keyes drove a state-owned truck equipped with snowplow outside the prison in Walpole, Dec. 9. He was involved in an accident which sent two persons to hospital.

DETROIT (AP) — James Coll is in jail because the stray dog he trained as a lookout failed him during a burglary.

Coll told police he had trained the dog to bark if he saw a policeman. Instead the dog just wagged his tail as two officers approached a gas station which Coll was robbing.

SHEFFIELD, Eng. (Reuters) — When motor engineer Les Monfredi got a three-

That's just what he was doing. Engineers who ripped up the sidewalk the next day found that for 65 days the street lamp-posts had been connected to Monfredi's supply cable. The bill will be adjusted.

TORONTO (CP) — There's a budgie bird heading for a nervous breakdown.

Twetie, a pet budgie, has laid more than 60 eggs in a year. But many hours of patient sitting haven't produced an offspring.

When Twetie lays an egg she hops on her swing and chirps ecstatically. Then she tries to hatch it.

No dice. After days of sitting, she flies into a tantrum and pecks the egg to pieces.

Budgie breeder W. H. Gooderham said the bird sometimes goes on an egg-laying bender. There's nothing that can be done, he said, except get the eggs out of the cage so the bird won't die of frustration.

BIG THREE CONFERENCE

'Brass Tacks' Policy Suggested for Ike

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some state department officials would like to see President Eisenhower return to "brass tacks" negotiations when he meets the leaders of Britain and France here in the spring.

They would prefer that he use less of the personality approach by which he seeks to bring about better understanding without trying necessarily to solve any specific problems. There is some fear that an Allied summit conference could do more harm than good unless it is prepared for with great care and conducted according to a well-considered plan.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French Premier Guy Mollet are expected to come here within the next three or four months. Some officials say it could be as early as March. Eisenhower has used many times an informal approach to international meetings — from his conference with British and French leaders in Bermuda in December, 1953, to his talks last month with India's Prime Minister Nehru. That seems to be the spirit of his approach also to his week's meeting with King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Officials emphasizing a need for careful advance planning for a Big Three conference cite the possibility that a minor misunderstanding or chance comment could produce popular anger or resentment.

$3,000 Robbery At Chemainus

Theft of about $3,000 in cash and cheques in a 1,200-pound motel safe was reported by RCMP today as a result of a Saturday night break-in at Chemainus.

The safe was stolen from Horse-shoe Bay Inn sometime Saturday night, and all cheques, totalling $1,000, were stamped with the name of the hotel.

Remainder of the money, about $2,000, was in varying denominations of currency.

Sharp Criticism Levelled At Dieppe Raid Planning

(From BUP and CP Dispatches)

LONDON—Severe criticism of the planning of the ill-fated Dieppe Raid of Aug. 18, 1942, in which hundreds of Canadians were killed, was contained today in an official history of Second World War.

The book, the second volume of "The War at Sea (1939-1945)," by Capt. S. W. Roskill, DSC, RN, said the plan to attack Dieppe had three serious defects:

1. "The excessive reliance placed on surprise, in conditions where complete surprise was unlikely to be achieved."

2. "The weight and strength of supporting fire—both close and distant—was nothing like adequate to deal with defence of such power and density."

3. "The plan was extremely complicated, and military planning was overly rigid."

Roskill noted that this latter fault was usually attributed to the Germans. He said the Germans were surprised the Allies didn't use air-borne forces to knock out key points ashore, and that operational orders were so rigid in their details.

"There is a certain irony in this German criticism of British inflexibility in planning; for we are inclined to consider such faults essentially Teutonic," said Roskill.

Of the 4,961 Canadians taking part, 3,363 (nearly 70 per cent) were casualties. Thirty-three landing craft and one destroyer were lost. One hundred and six planes were destroyed. Not a single tank put ashore was recovered.

Roskill said the Dieppe raid had been planned, among other reasons, to give active employment for the newly-arrived Canadian troops, "these fine but as yet untried soldiers."

Planning began in April, four months before the operation, under the general command of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, then chief of combined operations.

It was decided not to bomb Dieppe before the raid on the grounds that bombing might only alert the Germans, as was suspected during the St. Nazaire raid, of the impending attack.

Roskill commented: "Later experience leads one to believe that these arguments against air bombardment were not altogether sound; and their acceptance may well have contributed to the failure of the raid."

He also regretted that a battleship had not been present, and quotes the naval force commander as saying that it probably would have turned the tide in the Allies' favor.

The English and Canadian troops, with a handful of U.S. Rangers, sailed from English south coast ports on the night of August 18-19.

ACCIDENTAL

The Canadians were drawn from the South Saskatchewan Regiment, the Royal Regiment of Canada, the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the Canadian Essex Scottish. The Englishmen were commandos.

The first blow against the Allies' chances was accidental—at 3:47 a.m. one of the invaders bumped into a German convoy, which gave the alarm.

Taking part in this affray and ensuing fighting was the Royal Regiment of Canada, which suffered terrible losses; all but three of the 29 officers taking part and 459 of the 516 men were killed, wounded or missing.

The South Saskatchewan Regiment and the Cameron Highlanders of Canada landed more successfully and went on to capture some of their objectives.

Then tragedy struck them. They were outflanked by the Germans, and when landing craft came in to pick them up later in the morning, the Canadians were picked off by heavy German fire from the shore.

On August 20 Lord Mountbatten went before the war cabinet and stressed the value that the lessons learned at Dieppe would have in planning the invasion of Europe.

Roskill concluded: "Though the price paid there had been heavy, the recommendations made in the combined report were all put into effect by the time the great landings of later days took place."

GANGLAND VENGEANCE LINKED TO B.C. CAR BLAST

VANCOUVER (CP)—A car belonging to businessman Peter Hamilton was wrecked by an explosion outside his Wellington Street home here Sunday night.

Hamilton said today he believes the person who blew it up is one whom he "turned in" for a crime 12 years ago.

He told police the man threatened he would "get" him, his mother, and a detective who worked on the case.

The blast ripped off the lid of the trunk and flung it about 30 feet, tore a hole through the floor and scattered heavy tools stored inside the trunk.

A window in the Hamilton home was shattered and people throughout the neighborhood were startled by the sharp report. No one was injured.

Mr. Justice Wood, 75, Dies After Seizure

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice H. S. Wood, who retired from the British Columbia Supreme Court in December, died Saturday night here. He was 75.

A Supreme Court judge since 1947, Mr. Justice Wood retired at the end of 1956 because of ill health. He suffered a stroke three days before his death.

The judge was an honorary vice-president of the Boys' Clubs of Canada and was prominent in youth work.

Born in Peterborough, Ont., he graduated from Queen's University in 1905 and was Crown prosecutor in Peterborough between 1916 and 1928. As a student, he was a member of Toronto Argonauts Rowing Club.

From 1922 to 1934 he was also a special narcotics prosecutor in Ottawa. He then moved to B.C., where he became a juvenile and later police court judge at Vancouver.

Solon Low, Bennett Talk Election Plans

National Social Credit Leader Solon Low paid a lightning visit to Victoria over the weekend to confer with provincial leaders on party strategy for the federal election.

Mr. Low arrived in the city Sunday afternoon, met with Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner during the evening, and left by air early this morning for Edmonton.

Original plans called for Mr. Low to spend at least two days here and in Vancouver, meeting with top officials of the Social Credit League.

Premier Bennett today referred to the talks as a "survey" of Social Credit strength across Canada for the election—forecast for June.

"The federal campaign is really rolling now," Mr. Bennett said, and predicted that Social Credit will sweep B.C.'s 22 federal seats and will take "a minimum" of 40 across the country. The premier indicated he will take an active role in Social Credit campaigning during the federal election.

Although no dates have been set, it appears likely he will make a number of speeches in other parts of the country.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, named by Mr. Low last November to "mastermind" the national Social Credit assault on Ottawa, said the campaign committee is slated to meet again in Toronto in mid-April.

Two in One Bed At Nanaimo Hospital

Children Patients Turned Away In Order to Handle Accident Cases

NANAIMO (CP)—Overcrowding at Nanaimo General Hospital is reaching "serious proportions," Dr. Larry Giovando said Saturday. He was commenting on the fact that 124 patients are being treated in the institution built to accommodate less than 100.

The shortage of space is particularly acute in the children's ward, he noted. Friday night when four children were brought to the hospital following a highway smash at Ladysmith, it was necessary to put two of the children in the same bed and accommodate an infant in a clothes basket.

"Even at that we had to send some children home in order to be able to take care of the accident cases," the doctor added.

"Need for a new hospital for Nanaimo is more pressing than ever and it is particularly disturbing when we find our hospital accommodation strained to the breaking point to take care of four children in urgent need of immediate medical attention."

presidential ambitions hard," he said in an interview.

He did not name them. Willey, top Republican on the Senate foreign relations committee, said he has no doubt the Democrats "have had their meetings and they have divided up the field of attack" on Dulles.

"They have come to the conclusion they could not attack President Eisenhower after his landslide victory in November and so they are directing their fire on Mr. Dulles," Willey said, adding:

"You would think from listening to some of them that Dulles started all of the trouble in the Middle East. I don't think they are getting to first base with their attacks."

Dulles went back before the combined Senate foreign relations and armed services committees today for more questioning—this time in secret—on the "Eisenhower doctrine" for protecting the Middle East from Communism.

He was subjected to a blistering Democratic attack on his handling of the Middle East situation during four days of public testimony last week.

The administration turned on the pressure to prevent a foreign policy inquiry proposed by Sen. Fulbright. Senators were being told that such a review might cause a new breach in U.S. relations with Britain and France when it touched on those nations' Suez attack and U.S. opposition to it.
